U. S. To Refuse Passports For Known Communists

SUFFERING SPREADS

Citrus Belt Hit By Record Cold, Loss In Millions

By United Press International

All-time low temperatures froze millions of dollars' worth of citrus fruit in the frigid lower Rio Grande Valley Friday and a wintry blast plastered freezing rain and snow on Dixie's Atlantic seaboard from North Florida to Virginia.

The week-long cold wave took a soaring toll in lives and crops as it clung to the South and threatened south and central Florida's citrus and vegetable crops for the first time.

The cold eased in the West and North. But freezing temperatures still chilled all the nation except the Florida peninsula and the West Coast. The mercury fell to 38 below at Fraser, Colo., and 18 below at Big Piney, Wyo.

BAY FREEZES

Gumbo froze on a table at Morse, La., water iced in Galveston Bay 100 feet from shore, and for the first time in history a bridge was closed in Jacksonville, Fla., because of ice.

Suffering spread through usually balmy areas of the South. Texas counted six children among its cold wave dead. They included a 1-year-old Houston boy who died of frostbite and five youngsters who succumbed to bronchial pneumonia contracted in inadequately heated homes.

A woman froze to death in the Virginia mountains as she went for aid for her husband, stricken with a heart attack. Another Virginia woman frozen to death as she walked through woods near her home.

In one full week of wintry ordeal, the nation counted at least 202 deaths blamed on the weather. Texas alone had 32 and Illinois 26.

There were 19 weather deaths in Wisconsin, 17 in Michigan, 10 each in Alabama and Colorado, 9 in Mississippi, 7 in Iowa, 6 each in Louisiana and Missouri, 5 each in Georgia, Virginia and West Virginia.

Arkansas, Montana, Ohio and North Carolina counted 4 deaths each; Indiana, California, Oklahoma, Tennessee, New Hampshire and Massachusetts 3 each; Kansas, New York, South Caro-

Two Biggest Rail Systems Okay Merger

Plan Is Subject To Approval By Federal Agency

NEW YORK (AP)—The Pennsylvania and New York Central formally agreed Friday on plans to merge the nation's two biggest railroads into a single system with $5.4 billion assets.

The giant step, setting out the financial terms for the marriage, still left formidable obstacles which could delay final merge for two years or longer.

PREDICT GAINS

In a joint statement following separate board meetings in New York and Philadelphia, the companies called consolidation "an economic necessity which will benefit the nation's economy."

Both carriers experienced tough financial sledding in 1961, although the Pennsy apparently finished the year in the black—barely.

A formal application for necessary approval by the Interstate Commerce Commission, federal rail regulatory agency, will be filed as soon as possible, probably within 30 days, they said.

Regardless of the final outcome, the firm decision for an all-out effort to link the two transportation giants seemed sure to have far-reaching effects on other pending railroad merger proposals.

Under the plan, the Pennsy and Central would join into a new corporation to be called the Pennsylvania New York Central Transportation Co., domiciled in Pennsylvania.

Holders of 13,167,754 outstanding shares of Pennsylvania common would receive common stock in the new corporation on a one-for-one basis.

Holders of 6,521,838 outstanding shares of Central common would receive 1.3 shares of the stock of the new company for each share.

Stockholders of both railroads will be asked to approve the agreement at annual meetings in May.

WARMING UNDERWAY

Snow In Area Starts Thaw

Warmer temperatures are expected today to partially melt the four inches of snow which fell Tuesday and has caused frozen automobiles, busted water pipes and hazardous driving conditions in the Ouachita Parish area.

The U.S. Weather Bureau at Jackson, Miss., reported a warming trend for today with generally fair skies and southerly winds 5 to 15 miles per hour. High temperature for today is expected to reach from 38 to 42 degrees. The low is forecast to range between 22 and 25 degrees.

The Twin Cities experienced the lowest temperature in almost 11 years yesterday when the mercury fell to one degree below zero for two hours. This was the lowest temperature recorded in the area since 1951 when the low was two degrees below zero.

High temperature for yesterday was recorded by the Federal Aviation Agency at Selman Field at 33 degrees.

An advance forecast for Sunday, made by the Jackson bureau, showed partly cloudy and warmer with a chance of rain.

The Trailways bus line went back on schedule yesterday morning when two buses left out of the Monroe station, one for Jackson, Miss., and the other for Shreveport.

STOP FOR NIGHT

A spokesman for the line said that three buses were expected in last night from different points and that all would stay in Monroe. He added that all buses were scheduled to run today but it was not known if they would continue to run through the night.

All other means of transportation are reportedly running on their regular schedules.

The worst appeared to be over yesterday when temperatures leveled off at the freezing mark for

Navy Names Chief Of New Task Force

Plans Are Made To Develop First Nuclear Flotilla

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Navy Friday named one of its most dynamic and decorated admirals, J.T. (Chick) Hayward, to command a new task force expected to develop eventually into the world's first nuclear-powered flotilla.

Flagship of the unit will be the nuclear-powered aircraft carrier Enterprise, largest warship ever built. The 85,000-ton flattop is now nearing fleet readiness.

TAKES RANK CUT

To take over the new seagoing unit, Hayward will undergo a reduction in rank from vice admiral to rear admiral. But the 53-year old officer will be on a path that in time could take him to the top of the Navy.

At the same time, the Navy disclosed that Vice Adm. William F. Raborn Jr., who developed the Polaris missile, will succeed Hayward as deputy chief of naval operations for development. Raborn supervised the vast program which brought Polaris missiles and the missile-launching nuclear-powered submarines into the fleet in a brief three years.

Hayward, who was awarded four Distinguished Flying Crosses, five Air Medals and the Purple Heart in World War II, will have in his command at the outset the $444 million Enterprise, the supercarrier Independence and the carrier Intrepid. This carrier division will be escorted by cruisers and guided missile destroyers.

Nuclear - powered attack submarines will complete the task force.

In due course, the new unit is expected to include the nuclear-powered frigate Bainbridge which will be commissioned next Sept. 1.

A candidate for eventual inclusion will be the atomic-powered cruiser Longbeach which entered the fleet last September but now is scheduled for a long layup to be fitted with advanced electronic equipment.

Adm. George W. Anderson Jr., chief of naval operations, said when the Longbeach joined the fleet that "she may well be the forerunner of a complete fleet nuclear surface Navy."

The operating plans for Hayward's carrier outfit are the Navy's secret. But he is likely first to take the unit and its escorting ships to the Mediterranean to join the U.S. Sixth Fleet.

Appeal Plan Is Provided, Draws Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department announced Friday it will refuse passports to known Communists but will allow the Reds to see the evidence against them if they appeal.

The new passport procedure, based in part on the Supreme Court's October decision upholding the 1950 Subversive Activities Control Act, promptly drew fire from congressmen favoring stiffer regulations.

MAY AID REDS

To some passport officials, the revised regulations had a topsy-turvy effect of applying the anti-subversives law in a manner which may help Communists in getting passports. Heretofore, Communist connections have not been regarded as legal grounds for refusing a passport.

State Department spokesmen took a wait-and-see attitude on how effective the new procedure will be. They did not rule out further legislation by Congress.

A main point of criticism under the new procedure is the right given to Communists denied a passport to appeal at hearings at which they can confront their accusers. This, it has been contended, will prevent use of nonrevealable FBI sources. This, it is feared, will allow all but self-declared Communists to get passports.

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, a Foreign Relations Committee member, termed the State Department action "a step backward in the control and supervision of the Communist elements."

MOST RAINFALL

1961 Was Wettest Year Of Past 41

By JIM COTTON
World Staff Writer

Local residents waded through the wettest year in the past 41 during 1961.

The total rainfall for the Twin City area in 1961 proved to be the largest annual amount since 1920 and the total rainfall for December, 1961, was the most in a month in the past 14 years.

Records kept by the Federal Aviation Agency at Selman Field show the annual rainfall reached a total of 71.79 inches, which is the largest amount since 79.58 inches of rain fell in 1920.

December rainfall reached 11.69 inches which was the most since April, 1947, when 12.70 inches of rain fell.

The second highest amount of rainfall for 1961 was reported in March when 10.02 inches of rain fell. This was higher than any monthly amount for the previous three years.

LEAST RAIN

The lowest measurement of rainfall for a month in 1961 fell in October and was recorded at .75 inches. This was the lowest recorded rainfall since the same month of 1958 when .42 inches were recorded.

Looking through the temperature records, Jan. 29, was found to have the low temperature when 20 degrees were recorded. The mercury climbed to its highest point when it reached 96 degrees on June 9.

The weather is one of the world's oldest conversational pieces, and it certainly proved to be a good one in 1961. The following is a brief discussion of the high points of 1961, month by month.

Land Sites Are Studied For College

Lester High, a Monroe engineer, is studying "several tracts of land" before the state makes a purchase for Northeast State College, Sen. Jamar Adcock said yesterday.

"Gov. Davis authorized us to hire an engineer to make a study of the land for the college," Adcock said. "Mr. Lester High went to work Tuesday."

With $400,000 authorized by the State Bond and Building Commission for addition land, the State Board of Education has under option about 100 acres across Bayou DeSiard from the college.

But Adcock said an engineering study was needed before the purchase is actually made.

"We need to know if the land is suitable for the college," he explained. "There are factors to be considered, like drainage."

The property across the bayou under option is owned by Mrs. Joe Brown and Mrs. Fred Kalil. The college is also interested in a tract of Sherrouse land across U.S. 80 from the campus.

With the prsent campus located on 52 acres, Northeast is seeking additional property for expansion purposes. Plans call for the construction of new buildings, plus moving Brown Stadium to make room.

'MUZZLING' PROBE

Burke Is Likely Leadoff Witness

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, former chief of naval operations, probably will be the first of a dozen witnesses called at a Senate hearing on charges that the Pentagon has been censoring anti-Communist speeches by military officers.

This was announced Friday by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of a special subcommittee named to conduct the investigation.

Hearings are scheduled to start on Jan. 23, and Stennis has indicated they may run for some time.

WALKER LATER

Stennis announced that former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, who resigned his Army commission last November in a row over his troop indoctrination policies, will not be called in the opening phase of the hearings.

Walker's testimony will be sought after the subcommittee finishes hearing about censorship and moves into "troop training and indoctrination," Stennis said.

Walker, who has been on a speaking tour accusing the Pentagon of muzzling the military, was removed from his 24th Infantry Division command in Germany last year and admonished after an Army investigation. He was transferred to another command, then he resigned.

Stennis said after a two-hour closed meeting of the subcommittee that "perhaps a dozen" witnesses will be called in the initial censorship phase of the

Conviction Of Cohen Affirmed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) The 9th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals Friday affirmed the tax evasion conviction of ex-mobster Mickey Cohen and revoked his $100,000 bond.

Cohen, who had been sentenced to 15 years imprisonment on the charge, had appealed to the court to overturn his conviction.

He was charged with evading about $200,000 in income taxes. He was held in the federal prison in Alcatraz from July 28 until Oct. 17, when Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas ordered his release on the bond. Cohen is from Los Angeles.

Attorney A. L. Wirin of Los Angeles, representing Cohen on behalf of the American Civil Liberties Union, said Cohen would surrender to the U.S. marshal in Los Angeles later Friday for return to the county jail.

Wirin said he will file a new application for bail with Douglas asking Cohen's release pending an appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Cohen also faces trial in Los Angeles Superior Court March 5 on a murder charge in the death of Jack (The Enforcer) Whalen on Dec. 2, 1959, in a Sherman Oaks, Calif., restaurant.

Fuel Truck Overturns; None Hurt

A tractor - trailer carrying 5,800 gallons of highly flammable propane gas skidded off ice-slick Highway 80 West Friday afternoon, just inside West Monroe city limits, and overturned.

The driver Bobby Streetman, 33, of Arcadia, who was uninjured in the crash which left the giant tandem lying on its right side, partially on and off the highway, told police he ditched the truck purposely.

He said a car ahead of him slid out of control and spun around to face him.

"I had the choice of hitting him head-on or leaving the road," said Streetman, a driver for the Propane Corporation of Baton Rouge. "It never occurred to me that the load night explode — I didn't want to hit that car."

West Monroe police last night were looking for the driver of the car, described only as a green Buick. Reports indicated he was responsible for the crash and probably would be charged with following to closely.

Streetman said a second car, also eat - bound, was slowing for a right turn into a driveway off Highway 80, causing the driver of the Buick to brake suddenly and spin around.

Traffic was snarled in the area from shortly after the crash at 1 p.m. until around 8 when the truck was set upright. Westbound vehicles were detoured off Highway 80 onto Wellerman Road, moving thence to Warren Drive to Norris Lane and back onto the

No Repeat, Says Jury President

President M. W. Montgomery yesterday inspected a private road recently graded by the Ouachita Police Jury, then declared that it won't happen again.

Montgomery, a juryman from ward 3 where the work was done, said he "upheld" Parish Engineer Wayne H. Huckaby for authorizing the work since it was "approved" by ward 10 juryman A. E. Montgomery.

"It won't be done anymore," the president said.

He explained that he didn't think the parish was "out much" in the improvement of a half-mile road located on a farm leased by Clayton Calhoun.

"If they'll send me a bill, I'll pay for it personally," Montgomery said.

Earlier in the day, H. B. Zeagler, who owns the farm under lease to Calhoun, said, "That's the first time that a piece of parish equipment has ever been on this place."

Commenting on a statement made by A. E. Montgomery at the Police Jury meeting Wednesday that the parish had worked the road for the past 25 years, Zeagler said:

"That's not true."

He described the road as "strictly a private driveway."

Montgomery, the president, said he was not contacted on the request to work the road, adding that he didn't think ward 3 juryman L. B. Pettit was either.

"I haven't talked to Mr. Earle,"

Priest Admits Aiding Rebels, Gets Sentence

PARIS (AP)—A Roman Catholic priest who admitted helping Algerian rebels to escape from France so they could fight in North Africa was sentenced Friday to three years in prison and fined $600.

The priest, Abbe Robert Davezies, 38, testified he believed the rebels' cause was just. He said he decided to "give my unreserved aid to the militants of the FLN"—the rebel National Liberation Front—for moral reasons. He was an agent of an underground railway routed through Spain to Morocco, a western neighbor of Algeria.

The dean of French cardinals, Achille Cardinal Lienart, told the military court Father Davezies acted correctly.

REPORT ON FINDINGS

Doctors Say Virus May Cause Colds

CHICAGO (UPI) — An intestinal virus may be a cause of common colds, a group of doctors said Friday. If so, they said, there are indications a preventive vaccine would prove effective in combatting them.

The doctors, reporting in the current Journal of the American Medical Association, emphasized not all of the respiratory illness which occurred during a study of Marines at Camp LeJeune, N. C., could be associated with the virus, called Coxsackie A-21.

But the AMA, in an accompanying editorial, said the Coxsackie A-21 findings indicate "important new information" about the nature of colds in adults will be forthcoming.

Group A Coxsackie viruses are a group of "hardy agents of small size" which commonly inhabit man's intestinal tract, the doctors said. The viruses had been associated with mild fevers and neurological diseases.

The doctors said they recovered the Coxsackie viruses from the throats of cold sufferers among the Marines. Their study found the virus spread primarily through the respiratory route.

It was impossible, they said, however, to link any pattern of physical complaints with the presence of the virus. But in a comparison of cold victims without the virus, the sniffles, headaches, chills and fever were reported more frequently by those with the virus.

They said the importance of the Coxsackie A-21 virus in producing cold symptoms and the possible role of other intestinal viruses in causing colds are yet to be determined.

U.S. Resumes Aid To Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The U.S. government restored economic aid to Laos Friday—48 hours after Premier Prince Boun Oum agreed to fly to Geneva for a new Laotian summit meeting.

Boun Oum's pro-Western government was notified a $4-million cash grant for January, held up nearly two weeks, was being deposited for it in the Chase Manhattan Bank of New York.

U.S. Embassy sources, in disclosing the resumption of the allowances, declined to comment on the reason for the delay.

Brazil Opposes Cuba Sanctions

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI)—Brazil announced Friday that it will oppose diplomatic or political sanctions against Cuba at the Jan. 22 conference of inter American foreign ministers.

Instead, Foreign Minister San Thiago Dantas told an assembly of foreign diplomats, Brazil will suggest to the conference that a special committee be formed to draft a statute governing relations between Cuba and the rest of the Western Hemisphere.

U.S. Ambassador Lincoln Gordon left the foreign ministry after Dantas' "briefing" wearing a fixed smile. He said the Brazilian document would be forwarded to Washington "and it is up to them to make any statement."

Tallulah Warms Up To Stranded Family

TALLULAH (Special) — A family of 11 left this Delta town Friday morning in sub-zero temperatures, but there was warmth aplenty in their hearts for the friendly people who made it possible for them to continue their journey.

The people of Tallulah found out about a hard-luck family traveling cross-country and sheltered, fed, clothed and fixed their automobile, sending them on their way without even learning their names.

The story began to unfold Thursday when a man in his forties approached gargeman W. T. Scott and told him his car had broken down. Scott said the man and his family had slept in the car in Wednesday night's below-freezing weather here.

"He almost had tears in his eyes," Scott said last night. Scott said that his garage was doing a booming business at the time.

Nevertheless, Scott dropped what he was doing and began working on the man's car, although the man had already told him he didn't have money with which to pay for the work.

"I just knew they were hard up," Scott explained.

The next good samaritan was Garland Robertson, who operates a rooming house in Tallulah. The man approached Robertson with his plight and Robertson promptly provided two rooms where the family could sleep.

It was the first beds they had slept in in days. The family, which included the man, his wife and nine children ranging in ages from six months to 13 years, had been sleeping in their auto on a trip from Washington State en-

The lower Rio Grande Valley was one of the hardest hit sections. The mercury dropped to an all-time low of 10 above zero in the sub-tropical citrus - growing area.

An estimated 7.5 million boxes of oranges and grapefruit froze on the trees. Many growers feared that even their trees were lost.

"Everything is gone except the fence posts," one farmer said.

The state agricultural commissioner ordered growers to stop shipping fruit for seven days until the full damage could be assessed. Farmers already had marked off thousands of acres of tomatoes, lettuce and other truck crops as a total loss.

Two dozen water mains broke at Corpus Christi, Tex., water pipes burst by the hundreds and 3,300 homes and businesses in Edinburg were without gas on the coldest night in the town's history until service was restored early Friday.

An off - shore storm dumped heavy snow on the lower Eastern seaboard. Five to six inches of snow piled up on the North Carolina coastal plains. Businesses in Norfolk, Va., began closing before noon when 5 inches of snow piled up, with about 7 inches expected.

Freezing rain iced trees and Shrubbery at Jacksonville, Fla., and workers were still struggling to get to their jobs at noon. Traffic slowed to a crawl.

By 7 a.m. EST Pensacola, Fla., had endured its 54th consective hour of freezing temperatures. The cold moved south through the Florida Peninsula. For the first time in the current cold wave, citrus and vegetable crops in central and south Florida were threatened with frost.

Mobile, Ala., suffered its coldest weather in 90 years amid a spate of frozen water pipes and gas-pressure failures. Icy roads held more than 100 truckers, many from Canada, in Montgomery, Ala.

Garbage collection was suspeneded in Baton Rouge and Crowley, La., because garbage froze in the cans. Forty-one New Orleans fire stations dished out water to families with frozen lines.

nother Foreign Relations Committee member, declared, "The order does not deal adequately with the problem and legislative action is necessary."

Sen. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D., told a reporter he is preparing a protest to the Justice and State Departments that the new regulations provide "nothing anywhere near the safeguards" intended by the Internal Security Act.

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., announced he is asking the Senate Internal Security subcommittee to hold hearings on the whole problem of curbing passports for Communists.

Keating said in a statement the regulations "certainly are an improvement on blanket issuance of passports to any known Communist or traitor who applies. But they are a stopgap measure at best."

The State Department's legal adviser, Abraham Chayes, and Roger W. Jones, deputy undersecretary for administration, joined in explaining the new regulations to newsmen.

Chayes said that on the basis of past court decisions and on other parts of the antisubversive act itself, both the State and Justice Departments legal experts had concluded that the legal requirement was that Communists denied passports could examine the evidence used in the decision against them.

Jones acknowledged this would rule out use of confidential information in turning down a Communist's application. But he said the procedure is at least a step forward over the situation which has prevailed since 1958 court decisions. Under the 1958 decisions, the department decided Communist party members were free to obtain passports and they have been receiving them.

Jones said also it remains to be seen what evidence might still be successfully used at a passport denial hearing without breaching security.

The State Department said it is joining the Justice Department in a move to revoke passports now held by known leading officers and members of the Communist party of the United States.

He explained that Richwood No. 2 runs next to his place and is used as a public road.

Referring to the road graded by the Police Jury on the Calhoun-leased place, Zeagler said, "It's not used by the public."

The matter was brought to the attention of the Police Jury by ward 10 juryman L. U. Fourmy, who called for a clarification of the Police Jury policy concerning the use of parish equipment on private property.

Huckaby told Fourmy at the Wednesday meeting that he authorized the road without knowing whether the road was dedicated to the public.

Robertson did not get their names. I don't know why I didn't . . . but they were broke."

Both Scott and Robertson said that one look at the children tugged at their heartstrings to the extent that they were ready to pitch in and help all they could.

Scott said the man had sold his coat to get money to help finance the trip after the hard winter weather made traveling difficult and began draining resources which had been adequate when they started the trip.

Scott said that "someone in Monroe told them that their valves were all burned up but actually there was not too much wrong — the battery, starter and a few odds and ends."

"My wife and some friends of ours brought some groceries and we gave them some money. I repaired their car and gave them some gas and oil this morning to get them on their way.

"Their home was originally in Alabama and they left Washington on account of working conditions and weather. He was a sheet metal worker."

"When he left my shop, he was in pretty good shape to get home," Scott said. Scott said that the man had also sold his radio to get some badly needed money. He added that the man had said no one "wanted to tackle the car because it was old."

Robertson and employe's at Robertson's refrigeration company "chipped in at the office and made them some hot stew and stuff for supper."

"The man came in and told me his situation, so I told him to bring them (the children) on in—to get them out of the cold, you see."

"My sister had some clothes and things — they had some clothes but they were all wet."

Robertson said the man wanted to give him some sheet metal tools as payment, but he bought them instead for $20.

Scott said that "somebody else brought some groceries this morning" for the family and "Waynes' Grocery gave them some stuff."

The Tallulah people said the man had a job waiting for him in Alabama, and Scott said that he promised to mail him payment for work on the automobile.

The family was given warm shelter and food at the Scott house, and Scott's wife went on a shopping excursion to get milk for the baby.

Needless to say, the travelers whatever, their names, were one big happy family when they left Tallulah Friday morning. And it'll probably be a long time before they forget the warmest town on their route, even if it was during zero-degree weather.

highway. About eight officers were working on the scene in freezing temperatures from around 2 until 8 p.m. when they were relieved two hours early by the night shift.

Locally - based winch trucks tried unsuccessfully to raise the truck early in the afternoon before A. L. and W. Moore of Bossier City were called to bring what was described as "one of the largest wreckers in north Louisiana.

Two winch trucks finally hooked onto the cab while the giant Bossier City machine hoisted the trailer.

Workmen expressed little fear of an explosion during the raising operation. Streetman, himself, declared the danger "was practically over when the impact of the crash didn't send it up."

He conceded that his escape from injury or worse was little less than miraculous.

None of the gas spilled from the trailer but police still were prohibiting smoking in the area. Onlookers were not allowed at the scene.

The biggest problem in setting the truck upright was raising the cab without tearing off a fifth wheel, workers said. A second truck was drawn up and about half the load pumped from the overturned trailer to aid in the lifting operation.

The tractor was said to be in running condition but plans were for it to be hauled to Gibsland for an inspection. Streetman was enroute from Gibsland to Jackson Miss., at the time of the crash.

"This is the first time anything like this has ever happened to me," commented Streetman, a veteran of several years with the company.

West Monroe Police Chief Jeff Caldwell singled out for special praise members of the department who worked almost throughout an eight - hour shift at the scene. They included Capts. Dave Johnson, and Charles Dortch, Sgt. Travis Russell and Tommy Hebert and Patrolman Gus Campbell, Rawls Dupree, Jim Burkes and Roy Naron.

"It's been about the worst weather I can imagine for a detail like this," he said. "Several of them didn't have to stay."

hearings, but he declined to name anyone but Burke.

The senator commented that Burke "is well known and highly respected" and "has knowledge about the first phase of our hearings dealing with censorship of speeches."

While serving as chief of naval operations, Burke protested that civilian defense officials had censored some of his public speeches, but Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has quoted the admiral as saying he never was "muzzled."

Just about a year ago, Burke was required by administration officials to rewrite a speech he had prepared for a New York dinner meeting. As originally written the speech included a denunciation of the Soviet Union.

President Kennedy, at a news conference on Feb. 1, defended the White House order requiring Burke to revise the speech.

"There is some value in coordinating statements made by high-ranking responsible officials —involving national security—and making sure that they represent national policy," the President said then.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and the late Sen. Styles Bridges, R-N.H., criticized the curb on Burke as "gagging."

Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., who brought about the inquiry with his more recent charges that the Pentagon was "muzzling" military officers who sought to speak out against communism, attended the subcommittee session.

Stennis said that approximately 1,500 speeches by military leaders, which Thurmond said had been stripped of "hard talk and phrases" about communism, had been reduced to about 200 pertinent ones by advance work of the subcommittee staff.

Two Biggest Rail Systems Okay Merger

the Justice Department said the proposal will be closely scanned from an anti-trust point of view.

The department has been represented at ICC hearings on several other railroad merger plans initiated in 1961 and earlier years, and strongly opposed one—projected union of the Seaboard Air Line and Atlantic Coast Line Railroads.

The proposed Pennsy-Central combined system would embrace about 20,300 miles of track—nearly 10 per cent of the national mileage now in service.

The two lines, paralleling over much of their respective service areas, each now serve Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit, Louisville, Indianapolis and several other large cities in the northeastern quarter of the country.

$400 Million Surplus Goal Of Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy will send Congress a new budget next week showing a narrow $400 million surplus, based on the assumption that the lawmakers increase postage rates.

Informed sources said Friday Kennedy would uphold his pledge to submit a balanced budget by proposing $92.6 billion in spending during the fiscal year starting July 1 and forecasting revenues of $93 billion.

The budget went to the printers early Friday. Kennedy will send it to Congress next Thursday.

The revenue estimate would be a record high. The spending would be the highest for any peacetime year, topped only by the World War II budgets of 1944 and 1945. The predicted surplus would not be large enough to make any significant dent in the national debt.

If the surplus is realized, it would be the first in three years and the second in six years.

Two factors will determine whether Kennedy's estimates prove correct congress and the economy.

Administration officials said the revenue forecast was based on optimistic assumptions about business and corporate profits. If this year's business pickup is not as strong as Kennedy's advisers expect.

West Monroe's Chamber Plans 2 Boat Landings

Two boat landings are being planned by the West Monroe Chamber of Commerce, one on the Ouachita River and the other on Lake D'Arbonne.

The state highway department is responsible for the construction of a boat landing on the west side of D'Arbonne, just above the new bridge, according to official sources. The present landing at that location will be reconstructed and improved by the state.

Use of the landing has been interrupted during recent months because of construction on the new bridge.

A location on the Ouachita River south of West Monroe has been termed as "suitable" by officials. Chamber Manager, Eugene Smith, pointed out that the landing on the Ouachita is still in the talking stages and nothing definite has been done concerning that site.

Smith added that he hoped something could be done toward the realization of both landings before summer so they could be used during the period when water sports are most active in this area.

ANARCHY CASE

Decision On Cade Due In February

A date sometime in February will be the 'day of decision' in Muslim Negro leader Troy Bland Cade's criminal anarchy case.

Judge Mack Barham presided Friday as Cade's attorneys presented two motions in Fourth "sometime in Feburary" on:

1. A motion to quash the criminal anarchy charge of advocating the overthrow of the governments of both the United States and of Louisiana for force.

2. A motion to retrieve the main evidence which convicted Cade of criminal anarchy — a signboard which pitted the United States against the religion and proposed Nation of Islam, and which queried "Which will survive the War of Armageddon?"

Judge Jesse Heard on December 8 set aside Cade's conviction of criminal anarchy on grounds that the evidence used in his November 6-7 jury trial was seized illegally by Monroe police. He granted the Mulsim a new trial.

Cade's attorneys are seeking to have the Grand Jury indictment against him dismissed and to take back the so - called illegally seized evidence.

Another motion involved the theft charge against Billy Joe Barnes of Ft Worth, Tex.

His attorney asked for a bill of particulars, and Barham set February 16 as the date to he arguments for the bill.

The State Supreme Court has set aside Barnes' conviction by a trial jury last February, on a charge of $1800 from Arthur Grant Jr. of Honest John's Inc.

The high court granted him a new trial, on the grounds that his attorney was not granted a bill of particulars before the first.

He is charged with swapping a $3,000 diamond for a near-worthless fabulite stone and getting an $1800 lone on it from Grant.

In other court action, a Miami, Fla. teenager was sentenced to three years in prison.

Joseph Clifton Cash Jr., 18, 3635 NW 11 St., Miami, drew three years, concurrent, in the Louisiana State Penitentiary at Angola on each of two simple burglary charges.

Charles William Kavo, 304 Notle St., Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. charged with Cash, was remanded until February 9 for sentencing.

Donnell Hadley, 31, alias "Duck", 503 E. Morton St., Coffeyville, Kan., received a suspended three - year prison term and was placed on active probation on a simple burglary charge.

Willie Lucas, 119 Cherry St., West Monroe, was given concurrent two - year terms in the Ouachita parish jail on two charges of theft of copper wire valued at $24.30 and $33. The sentences were suspended and he was placed on probation on condition that he make restitution.

William Clayton Red, Negro, 615 Stone, pled guilty to two charges of forgery and was remanded for pre - sentence investigation.

Trial was set for May 11 for Johnny Lee Bridges, 100 S. Fourth St., West Monroe, charged with two counts of forgery, and an attorney was named to defend him.

A motion by Lytelton Poindexter of Breard's Alley to quash charges of theft of a $2,000 auto and simple burglary was overruled.

Fourteen charges of driving while under the influence of intoxicating alcoholic beverages led the list of misdemeanors:

Donald F. Brown, 38, 110 Winnboro Rd., fined $300 and court costs or 60 days in the Ouachita parish jail.

John McClendon, 48, 3817 36th St., Meridian, Miss., also charged with driving without an operator's license, trial on both charges March 30.

William C. Norrell, 31, 1211 South 10 St., trial March 30.

Lee E. Pettit, 43, Island Drive, trial April 6.

Mack Yates Stevens, 19, Ruston, fined $300 and costs or 60 days.

John C. Tedeton, 19, Route 2, Downsville, trial April 6.

Marion Allen Tedeton, 20, Route 2, Downville, fined $300 and costs or 60 days, and also fined $100 and costs or 25 days on a reckless driving charge.

Wellington Bryant, 49, Coushatta, fined $300 and costs or 60

William Andrew Green, 41, 601 Tippit St., West Monroe, fined $300 and costs or 60 days.

Robert Milburn, 38, 609 Natchitoches St., West Monroe, changed his plea to guilty, remanded until Feb. 9 for sentencing.

Melton Carey Reeves, 45, Route 1, Bernice, trial continued to April 6.

Billy Wayne Carr, 31, Route 3, Batson Road, fined $300 and costs or 60 days.

Inmon Newlin Walker, 39, Murray Motel, Route 1, West Monroe, called on bond when he failed to appear for trial.

Joe R. Crain, 35, Route 2, Marion, fined $300 and costs or 60 days, and also fined $25 and costs or 10 days on a charge of driving without a license.

Trial is set for March 30 for Maxwell Manning, 22, Negro, 1211 Joe Bill St., West Monroe, charged on two counts of illegal carrying of a weapon — a knife and an icepick — and with disturbing the peace.

Two teenagers avoided paying $40 fines by surrendering their driver's licenses for 30 days. Judge Barham levied fines of $40 and costs or 20 days each on Jerry G. Parsel, 19, 308 Washington St., Bastrop, reckless driving charge, and William J. Quenan Jr., 17, 1513 Country Club Road, Bastrop, charged with speeding. Their fines were to be suspended on surrender of their licenses for 30 days.

On charges of simple obstruction of a highway, trial for Asbey Amos, 68, Negro, 2028 Conova St., was continued to February 6, and Percy Lee Jackson, 24, Negro, Farmerville, was called on bond.

Willie Lenard, 23, who resides at the corner of Washington and Olive Streets in West Monroe, was called on bond on a charge of theft of $10.

Four others were charged with reckless driving:

Robert J. McKay, 39, Sterlington, trial March 30.

Gladys L. Trechel, 47, Billings, Mont., called on bond.

Robert M. Young, 23, 709 S. Second St., West Monroe, trial continued without date.

A warrant was issued for Henry R. Brazell, 17, Route 2, Dubach, who failed to appear in court for arraignment.

Charged with disturbing the peace were:

F. N. Moore, 33, 102 W. Fairway Dr., West Monroe, fined $25 and costs or 10 days.

Sam D. Pendarvis, 57, Route 2, West Monroe, called on bond.

Jerry Andrew Tedeton, 20, Route 2, Downsville, fined $25 and costs or 10 days.

Thomas Raymond Turner, 45, Winnsboro Road, fined $25 and costs or 10 days.

Sentenced for John Earl Lilly, 39, 207 Jerry St., West Monroe on three theft charges of $5, $10, and $5 was postponed until February 9.

UPI Chief Hits Interference On News Flow

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) —Interference by governments and growing economic pressures are making it constantly more difficult to report the news, Frank H. Bartholomew, president of United Press International, said Friday.

In a speech before the state convention of the Arizona Newspaper Association, Bartholomew said he was concerned by "the ever-present tendency of governments, from the city council of the smallest incorporated village to the highest office of government, to suppress unpalatable news on the theory that the politician knows best what is proper for the public to hear."

Also disturbing, Bartholomew said, were "the growing economic pressures against the newspapers of the United States," as evidenced most recently by the demist of two newspapers in Los Angeles.

Newspapers and news agencies are also being hit hard economically by "the vanishing press rate for the transmission of news," Bartholomew said.

In condemning government news interference, Bartholomew said "let us never permit a politician or a political unit of government to decide what we may or may not print, excepting only in the area of national defense and security."

"And in that area," he added, "let us not surrender to others the complete right to determine what is and what is not in the national interest."

Employment Increases For Parish

Employment in Ouachita Parish showed an increase in December, with 28,700 employed, 100 over November, the Louisiana State Employment service said in its monthly bulletin, the Labor Market Trends.

December showed an increase of 75 over December of 1960.

However, the labor force of the Ouachita area totaling 42,250, was showing 400 lower than a year ago and 6.7 per cent of the labor force unemployed.

With this decrease the unemployment moved up to 2,850 or 10.7 per cent over November and 9.6 per cent over one year ago.

The report says, "Substantial seasonal increases boosted nonagricultural employment in the Monroe Labor Market Area upward during December. At mid - December, employment reached a high for the year when it rose to 28,700, which was 100 above November and 75 above December, 1960.

"In reviewing the employment trends for the past four years, it is noted that the yearly average level of employment for 1958 was 26,300 which increased 2.1 per cent in 1959, as it reached 26,850. The upward trend continued during the year of 1960, maintaining an average level of 27.675, and gradually increasing through 1961. Although, expansion in industry during the past year was less than the previous year, the stability of the area is reflected, which means much to the area's economy."

Continuation of the Christmas buying season brought further employment increases in trade in December. Wholesale trade declined slightly below last month's level while gains occurred in practically all categories of retail trade.

"Largest increases were in department stores, apparel and accessories stores and eating and drinking places. The seasonal increase in the trade group reached previous expectations, as it rose .3 per cent over last December. Mining (primarily gas and oil production and gravel) was stable. The major employment loss was in construction, due to weather conditions."

the first time in several days. The sun broke through and with the help of the 33-degree temperatures started to slowly melt the snow which took local residents by surprise.

By noon yesterday, the temperature in Monroe had reached 26 degrees, 31 in Lake Charles, 30 in Alexandria, and Shreveport 29 in Baton Rouge and 28 in Lafayette.

The Monroe reading represented a rise of 34 degrees from the morning low of minus one to the days high of 33 degrees.

Many schools in the state were still closed yesterday but all in the surrounding area are reportedly open now.

HOUSE SPEAKER SAYS

Postal Rate Hike To Get Priority

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Speaker John W. McCormack predicted Thursday that President Kennedy would be "very successful" in pushing his legislative proposals through Congress. A postal rate hike was given top priority for early action.

At his first formal news conference since his election as speaker, the Massachusetts Democrat declined to forecast specifically the probable fate of the most controversial proposals Kennedy made in his State of the Union speech Thursday.

But other key lawmakers saw the outlook as ranging from poor to excellent for such presidential programs as aid to schools, medical care for the aged, tax revision, liberal new tariff - cutting power and higher postal rates for letters and post cards.

McCormack said Thursday that he favored federal aid for both public and private schools but would vote for assistance to just public schools if that were the only bill available.

He was pictured by some last year as the leader of Catholic opposition to the administration bill to provide aid for public schools only.

The speaker said Friday the bill to increase postage rates for first class letters from four to five cents and for post cards from three to four cents would be one of the first, if not the first, of Kennedy's proposals to be put to a vote in the House. Other mail rates also would be boosted.

The measure, which would bring in an extra $631 million a year in postal revenue, is ready and waiting for action. It may come up as early as the week after next. Its chances of passage are good.

The new federal budget Kennedy will send to Congress next week was expected to show a narrow surplus, based in part on the assumption that Congress will approve the higher postage rates.

In a general appraisal of Kennedy's program and its chances for passage, McCormack said.

"In the last session of Congress the President had a remarkable record of achievement. At least 34 of his important recommendations were enacted into law, which was a remarkable achievement. I am satisfied that in this session of Congress. . .He also will have a very successful session."

Meantime, the White House said it had received a heavy and favorable public response to Kennedy's State of the Union message.

Aside from expected early action on the postal rate increase, the timetable for considering Kennedy's other proposals has not been set. But the outlook in some case already is clear.

Kennedy will not get the standby authority he asked to cut taxes as a possible anti-recession weapon. The proposal probably will not even be considered.

Congress probably will approve Kennedy's plan for new federal aid for college classroom construction and student scholarships.

Walkers Learn Faster

In these days of school buses, fast automobiles and trains and jet planes no one walks much. Nevertheless, tests have shown that the student who does not have his own automobile to drive learns faster and makes higher grades than the one who does have a car. He has fewer failures and is more likely to finish high school and go on to college.

The admonition, then, seems to be that if you want your son or daughter to do well in school, don't give him or her a car to drive.

Undoubtedly, the automobile is good for many thing. Some car owners feel almost as if they had lost their legs if their auto won't run. They are accustomed to using the car for everything they do. How bad it can be to be without an automobile has been demonstrated many times here recently because of the number of cars which would not start because of the snow and cold weather.

Statistics, however, show that the automobile is no aid to scholarship. The Skokie, Ill., high school noticed this last year. The Allstate Insurance Company has practically proved it in a much more comprehensive survey covering nearly 20,000 11th and 12th grade students in 29 high school all over the country.

The pattern was the same time and again. The best students drive the least and the poorest ones drive the most. This does not necessarily prove that a student will fail because he drives a car. Some boys and girls drive and do their home work too. In fact, many "A" students do at least some driving.

Percentagewise, however, the figures read like this: Among "A" students, 67 per cent were drivers. Among "C" students, 72 per cent were drivers. Among "F" students, about 82 per cent drove their own cars.

Sternly, the survey team concludes:

"If you want Junior to do his best, don't lend him the family car; don't buy one for him; don't even let him work to buy and keep one of his own. Let him walk or ride the bus. Automobiles are great inventions but, academically, they are a waste of time."

An old adage is that "figures don't lie." They probably don't lie as much as some people do but even they can sometimes give an erroneous impression. It might be erroneous to say that no high school or college student should be allowed to drive because those who do not drive have, on the average, better grades.

One reason for this could be, of course, that parents of students who do not drive are more strict in other ways. It could also be that the non-drivers are naturally more interested in books and that is one of the reasons they do not drive.

It will be noted that even among the "A" students, 67 per cent are drivers. There are many activities in which the driving students are able to participate more easily. Advocates of a well-rounded education and extra-curricula activities might well argue that these things more than counter-balance the somewhat higher grades made by the non-drivers.

From the figures submitted, it would seem that about 75 per cent of high school students drive.

The question of which students makes the highest grades is not necessarily the most important one. Parents need to take into consideration what will best fit their children for success in life. If the students can be better fitted for life by participating in well-rounded activities, it may be that the automobile does not have such a black eye as the figures tend to show.

Poor Cuba, Dominican

One institution in the United States appears to have awakened to the fact that Cuba and the Dominican Republic, under their present administrations, are not our best friends. The Inter-American Development Bank, located on 17th street, in Washington, D. C. has loaned money to 18 Latin American nations but the management has put nothing into Cuba or the Dominican Republic.

It has been stated that nations of the western hemisphere subscribed $850 million in capital to the I.A.B. On the usual proportionate basis, this probably would mean that the United States contributed about $849 million or more and that the other countries involved put up $1 million or less.

The bank is so new that it has just completed its first calendar year. Felipe Herrera has come to Washington from Chile as president. The bank came out of the Eisenhower administration, before the Alliance for Progress was set up by President Kennedy, which shows that President Eisenhower carried on to a considerable extent the Santa Claus role established for the United States by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

At the end of the first year, $178 million had been loaned. Industrial loans were the most popular classification, at $77.5 million, with livestock and agricultural undertakings in the next place with $29.5 million.

Venezuela showed most bankable projects and borrowed $41.9 million, with Columbia next with $36.4 million.

In addition to this kind of banking, the new financial institution is the administrator of the $500 million "social progress trust fund" proposed in the Eisenhower days. The congress of the United States has put up this money.

First-year borrowing from the trust fund amounted to $115 million, of which $62 million went for housing projects and $40 million for water and sewer systems.

Some economists in this country have figured out that the United States could abandon completely its huge income tax-assessment program if it would quit trying to provide all the countries of the world with the modern facilities found in this country and would drop those governmental activities which are not concerned with government nor the defense of the United States.

In other words, these economists say, if the United States would stop being Santa Claus to the rest of the world and would stop trying to go into business in opposition to private business, most of us would not have some 20 per cent of our income deducted from our paychecks each week or month. That would be wonderful but it won't happen because our officials won't stop playing Santa Claus to the rest of the world.

Despite the fact that the new bank is run by a Chilean and the United States supplies practically all the money, we can say one good thing about it, just as the pious woman said about the devil when she remarked, "At least he's always busy."

At least, this bank is busy putting out money. Furthermore, it hasn't let Cuba and the Dominican Republic have any.

Robert Kennedy Vs. Crime

Situation Appalling; "What Good Are Free Elections If Men We Elect Are Owned By Crooks?"

WASHINGTON, D. C. — If Attorney General Robert Kennedy is anything like the rest of us, he will find excuses for postponing things he doesn't really want to do.

Bob Kennedy would be less than Human if he didn't dread the idea of putting the Federal Government onto faithful Democrats, who, in 1960, made possible his brother's election to the presidency and his own elevation to the office of Attorney General.

The words that reporters most frequently hear at the Justice Department are, "Our record will speak for itself." This means "No comment" to queries, such as this reporter made there, concerning the cracking down on Democratic swindlers with "Honorable" in front of their names.

The second most frequent statement seems to be to the effect, "We can't crack down without an airtight Federal case." The concern for the civil liberties of known law-breakers and hoodlums strikes one reporter as a wishful excuse for sparing the rod. I'll be very happy if the Attorney General proves me wrong. When the "record speaks for itself" by arrests, indictments or exposures, I intend to speak well of the record.

Meanwhile, the criminal control over the local affairs of this free country is one that shouts aloud for succor. A Justice Department higher-up in the best possible position to know tells me:

"Nationwide crime is appalling. Criminal rule over our businesses, labor unions and local governments is the very antithesis of democracy. What good are free elections when the men we elect are owned by the crooks?"

Last year, the Attorney General asked Congress for eight laws which would strengthen Federal law enforcement, especially in striking at interstate gambling which provides the main revenue for organized crime. Five of the eight proposals were made law. Kennedy is justifiably pleased with his record of putting some big gamblers out of business. Now he is back, asking for additional laws, which Congress will surely give him.

Nobody should underestimate the difficulty of Kennedy's job of making arrests and getting convictions. In recent cases, Government witnesses have been murdered, have suddenly lost their memories, have been discovered with their hands wired behind their backs and starving to death, have jumped $50,000 bail bonds. Big criminal operators have shrugged off fines and lenient prison sentences because they make so many millions they don't mind a light penalty. Newspapers will feature a crime of passion on Page One, but will bury a gangland murder or disappearance so that the public is hardly aware of the shameful occupation status under which we live — not just in New York and Chicago, but in New Kensington, Penn., and Newport, Ky., the hick towns as well as the metropolises. Local government everywhere has lost the ability to imprison or execute its criminals—and the Federal government, crying "There ought to be a law!", has excuses, excuses, excuses.

But there is plenty of power in the Executive establishment to do whatever it wants to do—and occasionally does do to businessmen, small town Southerners and to whole industries. Attorney General Kennedy could stop off at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue any morning and get a piece of paper which would put some crime-conquered community under martial law. A few drumhead courts martial, not excluding the firing squad for red-handed murderers, rapists and extortionists, would not so much damage civil liberties as help to restore them to the law-abiding majority. Even if Robert Kennedy used his Federal office, as he used his position on the McClellan committee, to expose the thieves and hoodlums, it would be helpful.

The Attorney General tells the story of going to the Pearly Gates, of being handed a piece of chalk by St. Peter and told to climb a ladder and make a mark for every election promise unfulfilled. As the Attorney General tells it, he met the President coming down the ladder and asked him where he was going.

"Going down to get a new box of chalk," was the reply.

Well, it isn't that bad. The President and the Attorney General have done better than most campaign promisers, much better. But when the iron gates start clanging behind Democratic big shots who are in cahoots with the crooks, Bob Kennedy can throw away his chalk.

DR. PETER J. STEINCROHN

Headache Causes

Woman Tries Many Remedies, Wonders If Allergy Is Reason

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am 35 and have had headaches for at least 20 years. I have been to every kind of specialist except an allergist. I haven't gone because doctors have said that allergy wasn't a proved cause of headaches. Do you think it's worth time and added expense?—Mrs. W., Colorado.

Answer: There are quite a few doctors who don't beleive that some headaches may be on an allergic basis. Recently I talked with a professor of medicine and he said that there was no scientific basis for the belief.

I asked him if he was convinced that allergy to milk caused many infants to have chronic skin rashes. He said yes. I asked him if it wasn't possible that milk caused some people to have diarrhea and stomach upsets. He agreed.

Then isn't it possible, I asked, that allergy to milk might cause many chronic headaches? He just didn't believe it was possible.

My advice, Mrs. W., is that you will lose nothing, and perhaps gain much, by going to an allergist. Not only have I seen undisputed cases of headache due to allergy in my own practice, but the medical literature contains many references to such patients.

One of the most stubborn cases occurred in a woman about your age who also had had headaches for many years. Guess what? She was allergic to house dust, dog hair, banana,, spinach, and milk. Proper treatment practically exterminated her headaches.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I do not know whether I have gout. I get severe pain in one of my big toes and it lasts for days and becomes red and swollen. Doctors have never seen it in that condition. When I get to their offices the swelling has gone down.

I went to three doctors. One said I had the gout. The other said that I was nervous. And the third said I had lack of vitamin B 12. For three months I have been on vitamin B 12 shots twice a week but have had no relief. Where does a person go from here? — Mrs. R., New York

Comment: On what did the first doctor base his diagnosis of gout? Did you have X rays of your foot and have a uric acid test taken? If these were positive, I'd be inclined to go along with this doctor's diagnosis. But I'm only guessing.

I suggest you ask for a consultation with an internist of outstanding reputation and have him settle the matter. Otherwise you'll be going around uncomfortable in the mind as well as in your toe. Indecision where health is concerned can be a painful experience.

Dear Dr. Steincrohn: I am bitterly amused when I read reports that many people are likely to exaggerate their pains in the neck after an auto accident because of the insurance involved. Don't believe a word of it. I had a whiplash injury to my neck while sitting in a car over a year ago. There's no insurance involved. Yet, I continue to get physical therapy treatments and take traction four times daily at home. I still wear a foam rubber collar to ease the pain. It's no joke.

Dr. Steincrohn' leaflet, "Practical Pointers for Coronary Patients," will be mailed on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and 10 cents in coin for handling. Address your request to Dr. Steincrohn, care of this newspaper.

Today is Saturday, Jan. 13, the 13th day of the year with 352 to follow in 1962.

The moon is in its first quarter.

The evening star is Jupiter.

On this day in history:

In 1733, James Edward Oglethorpe, together with some 130 English colonists, arrived at Charleston with a charter to establish a settlement in what is now the state of Georgia.

In 1864, composer Stephen Foster died in Bellevue Hospital, New York City.

In 1868, the Senate refused to accept President Johnson's ouster of Secretary of War Edwin M. Stanton.

In 1953, a Moscow report said nine doctors had been arrested for plotting the deaths of Soviet political and military leaders.

A thought for the day: French Emperor Napoleon Bonaparte said: "An army marches on its stomach."

WASHINGTON SHORTS

MOMENT OF MEMORY —Bashir Ahmed certainly has the distinction of being the world's most famous camel driver. He is the Pakistanian who made such a hit in the United States when he accepted Vice President Lyndon Johnson's invitation to visit here. He recently wrote Johnson, "Truly, I have left my heart in America. I found my family and camel very well. I will never forget Mrs. Johnson or her hospitality and the trouble she took with me." United States Ambassador to Pakistan William Roundtree wrote the Vice President that the story of Bashir's visit "made a tremendous hit" in Pakistan. "It was the subject of comment in coffee house, mosque and the camel depot. Street sale of newspapers jumped by the thousands" with stories and pictures of Bashir's visit to the LBJ ranch, the ambassador William Roundtree wrote the Vice President had gone out to the airport at 3:05 a.m. to meet the returning hero, to which Johnson wrote back, "It's hard on the body, but good for the memories."

SYLVIA PORTER

Many Don't Fly

Overwhelming 86 Per Cent Of Population Never In Plane

While waiting to pick up my ticket to fly West this week for my first non-writing vacation in years. I suddenly realized that since early 1961 I've been in dozens of planes, easily traveled over 60,000 miles by air — which makes me a "repeater" by any yardstick.

Why is it, then, that those of us who almost automatically take to the air for any trip of over 100 miles, are in such a slim minority? Why is it that our airlines are patronized by only 14 per cent of America's millions, and an overwhelming majority of 86 per cent of our population has never even been in a plane? What are the nation's airlines doing and planning to attract the non-flyers?

"We suspect the major reasons people don't fly are that first, they think it's to expensive and second, they're not convinced about the convenience or safety of air travel," said Charles C. Tillinghast, Jr., president of Trans World Airlines, on whom I called for an interview on this subject before I boarded my plane. "But if there are other factors, the airline industry is going to dig them out — and now."

A professional polling agency has just been hired by TWA in cooperation with several other airlines and a major aircraft manufacturer to make a grass-roots survey of why more people don't fly. The surveyors will make house-to-house calls, get curbside interviews to ask people whether they fly regularly and if not, why not. On its own, TWA also is hunting out first-time travelers, asking what they think would be necessary to draw in more people like themselves.

Not ever have our airlines been in such deep trouble as now. In 1961, the 11 major airlines recorded an all-time high net loss of $30 million, making last year the worst in the industry's history. While the percentage of us traveling by air is startingly limited, the jets have increased seating capacity 30 per cent since 1957 alone. While the airlines have been counting on a great and steady growth in passenger traffic, the rate of growth has slowed from 14 per cent a year in 1953-57 to six per cent annually in 1957-60 and in 1961 there was virtually no growth in traffic. While this slowdown in growth has been depressing the industry's earnings, there has been a sharp shift from first-class to less costly coach accommodations, intensifying the industry's woes.

So serious did the situation become in 1961 that President Kennedy appointed a special task force to probe into the airline's ills.

In September, the task force issued "Project Horizon" which declared flatly that the non-flying market "must be tapped" and which recommended that the airlines experiment with reduced fares, airbuses for short-to-medium hauls, special package vacations, the fly-drive concept, aggressive promotion of credit, shuttle services, etc.

"There's no doubt that promotional fares which save the public money can help us capture a bigger share of the traveling public," Tillinghast emphasized. Last August when TWA pioneered in a transcontinental round - trip jet excursion fare, an on-board survey revealed that one-third of the passengers were new air travelers, attracted by the fare.

"Improved airline ground services also are imperative," he declared. The handling of baggage must be speeded to end "Hurry Up and Wait." Tillinghast would increase the free baggage allowance for first - class passengers from 40 to 66 pounds. There must be modernization of ticket purchases, improvement in arrival, departure and weather information. Tillinghast is convinced the new terminals being opened by airlines across the country will be vital in enhancing efficiency.

No one ever argues that safety programs are urgent but Tillinghast insists "there is a great lack of awareness about the high degree of safety in flying" and a public education campaign is a need here.

Underlying all his remarks was the realization that the airlines must stop spending millions to fight each other for the 14 per cent of us who already are "captives" and start concentrating instead on attracting more of the other 86 per cent. As the airlines do create new services and safety devices, they'll benefit us, the repeaters along with the newcomers — and the airlines will be, as Tillinghast predicts, "well on the way out of the perilous depression of 1961."

GEORGE SOKOLSKY

China's Famines

Communists Still Unable To Furnish Nation Enough Food

As far back as one can go in the story of China, the problem has been population and food. The Chinese in the Yangtze Valley and in the South are over-populated and they are short of food. In North China, the people live on a mixed wheat and green vegetable diet; in South China, rice is the principal food. In both areas, the soy bean and its enormous varieties is essential.

Rice grows with difficulty in paddy fields. When analyzed in terms of protein and carbohydrates, rice is an extremely expensive food and a lack of rice can swiftly turn into a famine. The Chinese suffer from famine not because there is a shortage of food but because the means of communication are inadequate. In the North wheat and soy beans grow more than in the South. Beef and milk are not used at all although pork, chicken and fish are acceptable foods in both areas.

The food problem in China has always been a matter of serious politics. Famines have led to revolution and to the overthrow of dynasties. China, during the past few years, has suffered from severe famines. The only solutions the Red Chinese have found has been the pruchase of wheat from Canada and Australia, which has left Red China without adequate foreign exchange. The principal solution has been war—war against the countries to the south of China which are rich rice lands but if China imported rice from Siam, and all the countries which were formerly called French Indo-China, there would still not be enough of this food. The principal advantage of war is the accumulation of rice by slave labor. Thus far, this has not been successful.

This winter has been a very difficult one and although Canada and Australia have helped some, their aid has been insufficient and too costly. The Red Chinese have turned from economic to war and the intensification of the conflict between Soviet Russia and Red China is in a large measure due to Russia's inability or unwillingness to help.

Moscow has, since 1948, hoped to squeeze Red China into the position of a satellite. This Red China has consistently resisted taking the position that China has a larger population, a longer history, a finer culture and a superior response to Marxism-Leninism than Soviet Russia. When Stalin died, Mao Tze-tung looked forward to being recognized as the leader of the Communist Universal State. In this ambition, Mao failed although in the Communist world he is generally more respected than Khrushchev. Mao is an intellectual, a professor of philosphy; Khrushchev is a peasant and a miner who has pushed his way up through the party organization.

Red China has turned to birth control as a solution of the problem of food. Until very recently, plural marriage was not unusual in China and the population grew enormously because of this social custom. To what extent the Communists have succeeded in wiping out plural marriage is not known. The resort to birth control is a recognition of the need for population control in that country.

Politically, population control indicates an inability to solve the food problem. In the west, those who advocate birth control are not so much concerned with population control as they are with rise in the standard of living. In the East, where plural marriage has been usual, birth control can only be advocated with an aim to accomplish population control.

The population of China is estimated to be 600,000,000. Such an estimate may or may not be realistic as there has not been a proper census. It is not possible to make a scientific comparative study of population as the usual method of taking a census in old times was to count the chimneys and multiply by five.

Whatever the population of China is, the food supply is inadequate. Without an adequate food supply, the Communists cannot keep their people under control. The history of the country shows that hunger has led to revolution and to change of government. Furthermore, whenever China has faced famine, there has been an outpouring of the population in all directions, thus disturbing the status quo in East Asia.

UNDER THE STARS AND BAR

by FRED FREDERICKS

THIS WAS THE CIVIL WAR

By MERTON T. AKERS
United Press International

The Union fought and won its first substantial land victory in the Civil War on Jan. 19, 1862 at a crossroads in southeastern Kentucky.

The battle, variously called Mill Springs, Logan's Crossroads or Fishing Creek, was more than just a victory for the North. It broke Confederate Gen. Albert Sidney Johnston's line of defense across southern Kentucky and northern Tennessee, extending from Columbus, Ky., on the Mississippi, east through Forts Henry and Donelson to Cumberland Gap.

With Mill Springs and other actions in the next two months, Kentucky was lost to the Confederacy, never to be retrieved. From then on Kentucky was only a star in the Confederate flag.

The victory also was the wedge which opened Tennessee, the last state to leave the Union, to invasion from the north and made it the major battleground of the middle South.

The commanders at Mill Springs were Brig. Gen. George H. Thomas for the Union and Maj. Gen. George B. Crittenden for the South.

Thomas was a Virginian who remained loyal to the Union at the cost of estranging his family. His sisters went so far in their disapproval as to turn his picture to the wall.

A graduate of West Point in 1840, 12th in a class of 42, Thomas had won two brevets in the Mexican War and at the time of Mill Springs, he had passed 45, older than most Civil War generals. Just before the war, he was a major in the famous 2nd Cavalry with such later prominent officers as Albert Sidney Johnston, Robert E. Lee, John B. Hood and Earl Van Dorn.

Although suspect because of his southern birth, when he offered his services to the Union, Thomas was promoted to colonel of volunteers and served under Gen. Robert Patterson in the Shenandoah Valley before and after the battle of Manassas (Bull Run). He was transferred to Kentucky soon afterward and made a brigadier when Gen. William Tecumseh Sherman vouched for his loyalty.

By January Thomas was leading 4,000 troops south in Kentucky over bottomless mud roads which made five miles a day seem good progress.

On the 17th, Thomas' army arrived at Logan's Crossroads, about 10 miles north of the Confederate army under Crittenden which was encamped on the north bank of the Cumberland River.

Crittenden came from the famous Kentucky family split by the war. His father, Sen. John J. Crittenden, who authored the "Crittenden Compromise" just before the war, remained on the Union major general.

George Crittenden was a West Pointer, too, class of 1832, ranking 26th in a total of 45. He won a brevet in the Mexican War and resigned in June 1861 to become a Confederate general.

He had taken command of the Confederate army of about 4,000 men only a short time before. The previous commander, Brig. Gen. Felix K. Zollicoffer, had posted the troops in a weak position at Mill Springs with their back to the Cumberland River. Crittenden ordered them back south of the river but Zollicoffer did not obey. Crittenden arrived too late to re-position the troops and, hearing that Thomas had arrived at Logan's Crossroads and that his army was dividing, with part of it across Fishing Creek, he determined to make the best of a bad situation and attack.

The Confederates marched all night north from Mill Springs.

At dawn on Jan. 19 after nine hard miles, they ran into Union pickets and lost any chance of a surprise.

Zollicoffer's brigade led the attack with two regiments. The rest of the brigade still was struggling through the mud.

The Federals were just piling out of their tents for reveille when the attack struck. Well-drilled and disipilined by the meticulous Thomas, the Union men gave ground slowly as they formed a battle line.

Thomas brought up more men rapidly and soon the fighting was on equal terms.

Zollicoffer, nearsighted, brave to the point of rashness, rode out ahead of his troops to reconnoiter. He wore a white rubber raincoat, a perfect target in the mist and battle smoke.

As soon as he cleared the smoke, he ran into Col. Speed S. Fry and the 4th Kentucky, a Union regiment.

Mistaking Fry for a Confederate, Zollicoffer rode so close to him that their knees touched.

"We must not fire on our men," he said to Fry.

"Of course not," Fry replied, moving cautiously toward his own men.

A mounted Confederate rode out of the woods and fired at Fry, wounding his horse.

Fry fired at Zollicoffer and several of his men followed suit.

Zollicoffer fell dead from his horse.

By this time the Federals were pouring in a heavy fire.

This fire and the death of Zollicoffer, an idol of his men, caused his two regiments to retreat in confusion.

Crittenden brought up more troops and ordered a general advance. The Federals checked it on the right and left and a bayonet charge by the 9th Ohio broke the Confederates.

The whole line crumpled and from there on it was a rout all the way back to Mill Springs.

The Confederates threw away their haversacks filled with corn pone and bacon. The Federals, having fought before breakfast, picked them up and ate the Confederate rations on the march as Thomas pursued Crittenden's troops.

By nightfall Thomas had reached the former fortified camp of the Confederates. He posted his artillery and men for an early morning attack.

But when assault time came the Confederates were gone, having crossed the Cumberland on steamboats which they later burned.

The spoils for the UKnion were considerable — 11 pieces of artillery, 150 wagons, about 1,000 horses and mules, ammunition, tools and five stands of colors.

Thomas reported 39 killed and 207 wounded.

Crittended reported 125 killed, 309 wounded and 99 missing.

The Confederate dead and wounded were left, including Zollicoffer's body.

Thomas sent Zollicoffer's body through the lines to his friends.

The South reacted to the battle immediately. It demanded a scrapegoat and picked Crittenden.

The Nashville Gazette called him a "common drunkard" and said an investigation doubtless would show "the greater sins of treason, treachery and cowardice."

Crittenden later was exonerated and allowed to resign.

This was the victory President Lincoln had been looking for, what with the Army of the Potomac idle around Washington.

Shad prices soared in Washington in the spring of 1862. Rebel guns along the Potomac river had frightened off the fishermen. A pair of shad cost 50 to 75 cents, an unheard of price.

Slavery was abolished Dec. 18, 1865, by adoption of the 13th amendment to the Constitution.

Passman Is Cited In Vermont Paper

(Editor's Note: The editorial below is reprinted from a current issue of the Burlington, Vermont, Free Press.)

The question of foreign aid will be hotly debated during the second session of the 87th Congress, which opens Wednesday.

This will not be unusual, of course, because the desirability of large-scale foreign aid has been debated in Congress for years. But this year the whole aid program will come under closer scrutiny than ever before.

The most potent foe of foreign aid in Congress is Democratic Representative Otto Passman of Louisiana, chairman of the House Appropriations Subcommittee on Foreign Operations. American taxpayers can take comfort in the fact that Passman will be as vocal as ever this year, with his knowledge of all aspects of the aid program, his boundless energy, and his articulateness working for America's best interests.

Passman cannot accept arguments for foreign aid put forth by its most outspoken advocates. He says of aiders: "When you really pin these people down, from top to bottom, they say we have only one thing to offer — that's our dollars. We're enticing foreigners with our dollars. We'll lose them all as friends if we're not careful."

Last year Passman was largely responsible for slashing President Kennedy's aid requests by almost a billion dollars. This year he could succeed in bringing about even more drastic slashes, and India's devouring of Goa and two othr Portuguese enclaves will not hurt his cause!

Congress soon will receive a report which shows that U. S. aid to India over the past 10 years came to about $3.3 billion. In the year ended last June 30, U. S. aid to India totaled $712.9 million.

Why should American taxpayers continue to send such huge sums of money to India? Or to Indonesia, Yugoslavia, Poland, Laos, and those other countries where our tax money either accomplishes little good at all or is used against us?

Fowler Hamilton, the new director of the Agency for International Development (AID), says that "we have foreign aid because it's self-interest, and it's right."

We hope that Vermonters will offer Passman — and Senators Aiken and Prouty and Representative Stafford — a good deal of moral support in whatever attempts they make to straighten out our aid program.

These are your dollars that the government is giving away. When foreign aid funds are wasted, each of us is the poorer for it.

Virginian Fined In City Court On DWI Charge

Judge W. M. Harper fined a 28-year-old Alexandria, Va., man $425 and costs or 210 days in jail Friday in Monroe municipal court activity for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

A Monroe Negro, Beatrice Tyler, 19, 103 DeSiard Ave., drew a 270-day compulsory sentence for theft, and Lula Mae Wilson, 33, also a Negro, of 1105 DeSiard St., was fined $100 or 60 days for selling liquor after closing hours.

Five men, all from out of town, forfeited bonds of $25 for gambling. They included Harold R. Hustead, 46, 821 Eimdale, Shreveport; Edward Higgenbotham, 37, 709 S. 14th, Arkadelphia, Ark.; Bale Leonard Aymond, 30, 3407 Horseshoe Dr. Alexandria; and 35 year old Hugh Frank Spencer, of 213 Brenda, Shreveport.

May Lee Jones, 41, Negro, of 1819½ DeSiard, was fined $25 or 25 days for public drunkeness, as was Negro Mack Wilford, 49, of 310 N. 7th St. Negro Johnie B. Hutton, 23, of 1403 Olive St., forfeited bond of $25 for public drunkenness and $50 for simple battery.

Nolle prossed were charges of theft against James A. Walker, 19, 514 Mississippi St., and Allen Walker, 18, 4510 Lee Ave.; and simple battery and disturbing the peace against 26 year old Negro Arthur Long, 3010 White St.

Ouachita Tax Collections At 96.63 Per Cent

The Ouachita Parish tax collector's office released information Friday that 96.3 per cent of parish property owners paid their taxes before the Jan. 1 deadline.

A spokesman said that "this is the greatest total percentage of collections at the close of December that we have ever had. The previous high was 95 per cent."

Total collections for December were $2,314,717.11.

Of this, $178,000 was mailed out on the last day, and received in the courthouse on New Year's day.

Taxes totalling $3,548,033.21 have been collected, of $3,671,448.65 collectable.

This leaves only $23,415.33 unpaid.

Officials said they wished to "give the public a pat on the back for the cooperation in paying the taxes so fully and promptly.

"We have had many checks come in since Jan. 1, so we are forced to collect a small interest on them.

"At the present time, we are picking up transfers of property in the names other than shown on the tax books for 1961. We are notifying these people who have not paid their taxes."

1961 Pecan Crop Exceeds 1960's

Pecan production experienced an increase in 1961 over the value of the 1960 crop, it was reported by the Louisiana Crop Reporting Service in Alexandria.

The crop for 1961 is valued at $5,935,000 which is a 31 per cent increase over the 1960 crop valued at $4,530,000, the service said.

The reason for increase in value can be explained by the increase in the size of the crop over 1960. Pecan prices in 1961 averaged 16.9 cents per pound for all types, where the 1960 crop brought 30.2 cents per pound. Wild and seedling pecans averaged 16.5 cents per pound compared to 29 cents in 1960. Improved varieties brought an average of 20.5 cents per pound while the same group brought 33 cents in 1960.

CONGRESS PROGRAM

GOP Says JFK Is Facing Defeat

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (UPI)—The Republican National Committee met in Oklahoma City Friday and one of its leaders predicted that not much of President Kennedy's program will get through Congress.

The leader was Rep. Bob Wilson of California, chairman of Committee. He said Kennedy's program is designed "to offer goodies to everyone and make economic serfs out of the majority of Americans."

"I don't think Mr. Kennedy is going to get much of his program through and I think it's going to boomerang against him in the 1962 elections," Wilson said.

Representatives from all 50 states attended the national committee meeting. They set their sights of regaining control of Congress and winning other offices in the 1962 elections.

Kennedy's State of the Union message came under heavy fire.

Rep. William E. Miller, R-N.Y., GOP national chairman, said he opposes giving the President stand-by authority to decrease taxes or increase public works spending, because it could be abused in an election year.

"If all of the things Kennedy asked for should become law, that will be the last State of the Union message," Miller said, "because there won't be any more union."

He charged that Kennedy had lost touch with what the people want.

"We think our chances are very good for winning a majority in Congress," he said.

"We sense a trend right now toward conservatism and republicanism, sensing in the wind this is a Republican year."

Party leaders heard a three-hour long report on how to gain votes in the big cities, where Democratic majorities were credited with electing Kennedy in 1962.

Ray Bliss, Ohio GOP chairman and head of a special committee on big city politics, said the problem boileded down to three factors: organization, qualified candidates and finances.

Republicans must recapture 44 seats in November to gain a majority in Congress.

Bliss said 18 governonrs, 19 U. S. senators and about one-fourth of the U.S. House will be elected this year from states or districts where 41 big cities play a major part in the voting.

"In most big cities," he said, "the Republican party generally is out-manned, out-organized, out-spent and out-worked. This must be corrected if we are to carry the big city states in statewide elections.

"We need more full-time staff people on all levels. We need more precinct workers.

Voice Of Broadway

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

The estranged wife of a popular show business performer has friends more than a little worried. She's been threatening to commit suicide if there isn't a reconciliation, and he seems perfectly happy without one. . . Ingrid Bergman is thinking up some good ones for the press these days. She told one reporter her wish for 1962 is "that a woman will win the Nobel Peace Prize." . . . Some of the town's top models are letting their hair grow because of an edict by Mr. Kenneth, hairdresser to the First Lady and other celebrated beauties. He sees something in his crystal ball that will be completely new, yet reminiscent of a gentler era — and it requires longer hair on the heads of the style-setters.

A hard core of Washington legislators is determined to make a big fuss this session about the role of the United States in the United Nations. The boys intend to ask many embarrassing questions, starting with how much are we paying to whom, and what are we getting out of it . . . If Lisa Lane (the chess champion who suddenly "couldn't concentrate" on the game because she was so much in love) doesn't have a clever press agent, she ought to become one. All that publicity out of nowhere smacked of professional planning. Lisa wants a screen test, maybe? . . . Executives concerned with the making of Liz Taylor's "Cleopatra" have seen a rough cut of one hour of the film, shown very hush-hush to only the most important of the chaps, at a Rome cinema. They flipped over everything — but especially Liz's performance.

REMEMBER THE SINGING DeMarco Sisters? Gloria the lead singer of the group, is working as a waitress at a club on Broadway in the seventies, singing with the band when she's not serving the patrons. She plans to make a show biz comeback as a single. . . . New Yorkers have been flocking to the Britania to hear Anna Chrysafi, who claims to have introduced the song "Never On Sunday" in Greece. (Melina Mercouri can have equal time if she wants it.) . . . The French Line is not ecstatic about Michael Blankfort's upcoming Simon & Shuster novel, "Goodbye, I Guess." They don't approve of the hijinks described in the book as having taken place on the Liberte.

Paramount's newest starlet, signed for "Mistress of Mellyn," is a red-headed, green-eyed beauty named Samantha Eggar. (The hair and the eyes can stay, but that name must go.) . . . No, Virginia, there is no "Mama Goldberg." A food vending machine company just bought the East Side eating place. . . . Dick Gregory, who had an unusually fast rise as a comedian, is reportedly ready to put a large sum of money into a Chicago nightclub of his own.

LETTER FROM PARIS: "Roger Vadim isn't wasting any time to get the build-up ball rolling for his 18-year-old fiancee, Catherine Desneuve. He's all set to start filming a picture called "Reflexes," in Tahiti. Originally the screenplay called for an all-male cast; now Vadim has switched a lot of the plot around so that Catherine has a very important role as the only woman in the movie. . . . Marisa Pavan, wife of Jean Pierre Aumont and sister of Pier Angeli, has bought the film rights to the Francoise Joris novel, "The Lies," and will make her bow as a producer by sending this project before the cameras around the end of February. It will keep Marisa nice and busy while her husband is occupied on the Paris stage, co-starring with Melina Mercouri in "Le Bien Etre," or whatever they finally decide to call it. . . . Nadia Gray, who did that sexy strip tease in "La Dolce Vita," will marry a millionaire French business man, Charles Saini, next month. The ceremony can't be chalked up as a novel experience for Nadia; it will be her sixth trip to the altar. . . . Maurice Chevalier gave himself a holiday present — a huge and expensive tapestry of the ancient church at Menilmontant, done as a college by artist Roger Pons. The tapestry is made unusual by pieces of glass, tin, colored toothpicks and other odd ingredients . . . Paris disc shops are pushing a weird record: an LP of the Eichmann trial sessions, with sad ghetto chants in the background and some dramatic orations by writer Roger Vailland.

ENGLISH ACTOR ALBERT FINNEY isn't self - conscious about his versatility. He intends to do both Romeo and Hamlet at the Mermaid Theatre within the year. (Hamlet, si; Romeo, no.) . . . Comedians Marty Allen and Steve Rossi probably will go into the Copacabana with Chubby Checker on March 22; Chubby journeyed out to the Latin Casino in Merchantville, N.J., to catch the boys' act and wound up onstage doing a 10-minute twist with Marty, to wild applause from the packed audience.

The funniest movie to hit the television screens in months was "Thirty Day Princess," starring —are you ready? — Sylvia Sydney and Cary Grant. It was one of those flicks that are so bad they're entertaining. . . . The students at an Ivy League college are mulling their satirical selection of candidates for their own "Father of the Year." As we go to press, George Jessel and Mort Sahl are neck-and-neck for the honor. . . . One out-of-town tryout city is still reeling from the "discussions" held between choreographer Todd Bolender and producer Leonard Sillman over the problems confronting "New Faces of 1962." It's hard to imagine Mr. Bolender sticking with the revue until the curtain goes up on Broadway.

Girl Ordered Committed In Death Of Boy

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — Chyrel Jolls, 15, was ordered committed to a mental institution Friday for the kidnap-drowning of a 3-year-old boy.

Judge Jacob A. Latona said he accepted the opinion of two psychiatrists who testified Chyrel was not mentally capable to assist in her defense in a trial. She was charged with kidnaping Andrew Ashley from his Buffalo home last June and drowning him in a nearby park lake.

Laton's four-page order committed Chyrel to an "appropriate" state institution, most likely the Matteawan State Hospital for criminal insane at Beacon, N.Y.

The teen-age girl is under indictment for both kidnaping and first degree murder and could be brought to trial later if psychiatrists decide she is mentally competent. In addition to being charged with the Ashley boy's death, Chyrel also was indicted for the earlier kidnaping of a 5-year-old boy. He was found alive.

A 5-year-old girl also was kidnaped here last June in a fashion strikingly similar to the abductions of young Ashley and the other boy victim, Richard Edgington.

The first victim was the girl, Susan Benedict. She told her parents she was led away from home by a strange woman, bound with her own shoelaces, and then abandoned. She freed herself and returned home unhurt.

The second was 5 - year - old Edgington, who was taken from home only the day before Andy disappeared. Richard also said he had been taken by a strange woman. He was bound and gagged, and a plastic bag was placed over his head, but he too freed himself and was returned home unhurt within a few hours.

Ashley disappeared on June 23. He was found two days later, bound, and gagged and floating face down in Delaware Park Lake.

Future Of Ft. Polk Depends On Army's Size

FT. POLK, La. (AP) — Army Secretary Elvis J. Stahr Jr. said Friday that the Army has "no plans at present to close Ft. Polk."

Stahr added that its future would depend on the size of the Army and the international situation. The Army secretary held a news conference following an inspection of training and facilities at the base.

"If we are authorized the size Army we have now," the secretary said, "we will certainly need Ft. Polk. But indications are we will not have as big an Army next year."

Stahr said the Army is now planning its organization for the next two or three years.

He said there were no plans to send another division to Ft. Polk, after the 49th Armoed Division of Texas is released from federal service later this year.

Stahr called Ft. Polk "as good as many in the Army, not as bad as some people say it is." But he said capital improvements would be needed if the base were to be used permanently.

U. S. Advises Diplomats To Respect Laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department publicly advised foreign diplomats Friday that they are expected to respect U.S. laws, including traffic laws, in spite of the diplomatic immunity which shields them from arrest.

The advice, designed also as reassurance to the Washington public, came after an automobile collision here Thursday.

Blake Clark, 53, an editor for Readers Digest; and his wife, Deena, asked the District of Columbia Legal Office to prefer charges against Lt. Col Maurice P. Schwartz, a Belgian Embassy officer attached to a North Atlantic Treaty Organization office at the Pentagon. They said he rammed their compact car twice here Wednesday night, then departed from the scene.

Gordon M. Van Sanford, assistant is shielded by immunity, and that the Legal Office, therefore, had issued no summons for a hearing.

The State Department declared in a public statement — without specifically mentioning the Schwarz case — that diplomatic immunity does not relieve foreign diplomats "from the obligation to respect" American laws.

Kennedy Message Brings Telegrams

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said Friday it has received hundreds of telegrams, overwhelmingly favorable, on President Kennedy's State of the Union message to Congress.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger said he looked over the first 100 telegrams to arrive and only two of them were critical.

The rest of the 100, he said, were of a favorable tone, singling out one or more aspects of the message for particular praise.

How To Keep Well

THE PINWORM WAR

We have battled pinworms for three years off and on, but the results of the program of cleanliness, carefulness, and medicine seems to last only a month or so in eliminating these pests. M y poor children suffer in that I won't allow them in each other's beds or let them invite friends to stay overnight. I nag them constantly to wash their hands and also wash fruits and vegetables.

"I realize cleanliness is good practice at any time but I do get a little ridiculous about it. My children are not living a normal life and I worry constantly over the problem. I have been told many people have pinworms without knowing it." So writes a distracted mother.

Forget the pinworms and concentrate on the physical and emotional needs of your family. Children are more important than these parasites, which are the least serious of all internal worms. Many reputable authorities are convinced these critters are overrated as disease producers and rarely cause symptoms except for itching.

Consider your problem in its true prospective. You have some insight because you realize that you are being ridiculous about the matter. Some mother assume an abnormal attitude toward an infestation and make life miserable for all concerned. They are driven by a compulsion to eliminate every egg and worm from the premises. When the house is finally free of worms, it may no longer be a home.

Cleanliness programs are ineffective, no matter how well they are carried out, unless all members of the family, including adults, are treated for pinworms. There are many good remedies. One of the lates, Pripsen, is said to combat pin worms after a single dose. Meanwhile, be reasonable in your efforts and don't take life too seriously.

RETIRED AND TIRED

S.G. writes: I'm 58 and retired. Moved from Chicago to Florida. Have been tired constantly since coming down here. Do you think it's the climate?

REPLY

No. Boredeom, unhappiness, no goals, and being a nobody are the most common psychological causes of fatigue. As a rule, the Florida climate does something for older people; they are invigorated and feel much better. Peraps your weariness is caused by the same factors that made you retire at 58.

LOW SALT DIET

M.C.H. writes: For what reason other than a coronary would a person be put on a salt free diet?

REPLY

A low salt diet is recommended mainly for those with high blood pressure, dropsy, cirrhosis of the liver, and occasionally obesity and certain glandular disorders. Individuals who receive cortisone or diuretics often are instructed to restrict the salt intake.

WILLING ONE'S BODY

G.L.W. writes: A few months ago I attempted to will my remains to a medical school and was told this could be done only by the next kin at the time of death. Please discuss this question.

REPLY

Twenty-four states recognize a will of this type. I suggest that you contact a medical school or a local memorial association for details.

FRUIT WORMS

J.J.K. writes: When you swallow a worm in a peach or any other fruit, what happens to it?

REPLY

The insect is killed by the acid in the stomach.

TALKED TO SLEEP

DiSalle Back In Ohio Race For Governor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle got back into this year's race for governor Friday. The campaign—which has all the earmarks of a slam-bang affair—was under way inside 15 minutes.

DiSalle's decision to run was not entirely unexpected since President Kennedy last Saturday night braved the foulest kind of flying weather to come to Columbus to speak some kind words on behalf of DiSalle, on the occasion of the governor's 54th birthday.

DiSalle said he would run for a second four-year term, despite his Oct. 20 announcement that he intended to bow out, because a Republican-contolled legislature met in an extraordinary session Nov. 14 and "again refused to meet the needs of this state' and he is now convinced that the "fight for a program cannot be conducted by halfway measures."

Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy of Cleveland, who announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor a month after DiSalle dealt himself out, handed out a prepared statement almost before the applause died down in the governor's Cabinet meeting where his re-entry into the race was announced.

McElroy had written: "I welcome the fumbling, faltering reentry of the governor in the primary election race. We are happy that the governor has finally discovered a candidate that he can truly embrace—with deepest affection. The governor, after many weeks of wrestling with his conscience, I am sure, believes that he has slected the best available candidate."

DiSalle, onetime U. S. price stabilizer during the Korean conflict, glanced through the two-page McElroy statement and commented: "After reading the statement, I am more firmly convinced than ever that I made the correct decision today."

Cosmos Club Rules Change Is Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, said Friday he will fight to strip secrecy from the blackbailing of prospective members of the exclusive Cosmos Club.

What he specifically wants to know is why Carl T. Rowan, deputy assistant secretary of state for public affairs, was turned down at the admissions committee's meeting last Monday. Some members have said it is because Rowan is a Negro.

The action led to protest resignations by several members and official word that President Kennedy, who was up for membership, had lost interest in joining the club.

Gruening, a member of the Cosmos Club since 1940, told a reporter he prefers to keep his membership and fight for revision of the rules.

He said he would attend a general meeting of the club scheduled next Monday and would raise the issue—or join others in raising it—as to whether Rowan was rejected because he is a Negro. Gruening added that he is reserving his judgment on whether that is the reason.

Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., also a member, said in a separate interview that he, too, is concerned about the Rowan case, but would reserve decision on whether to resign from the club until more facts are known.

Cooper said he will consider resigning if it is established that the Cosmos Club has a policy of excluding Negroes from membership, but he added: "knowing the character of the membership, I would doubt that is their policy."

Both senators said the club should have no racial bars.

Gruening said he would seek a change in the rule which he said provide no way to know who cast blackballs into the ballot box or why.

JFK Telegraphs Peru Sympathies

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy has telegraphed Manuel Prado, president of Peru, the "heartfelt sympathies" of all Americans in the tragedy of the avalanche which buried several Andean villages Wednesday night.

Kennedy told Prado he was requesting the U.S. ambassador there to determine what assistance this country could give.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger told newsmen the White House has been in touch with Ambassador James Loeb and, at this point, there appears to be little if anything the United States can do.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. 1-13

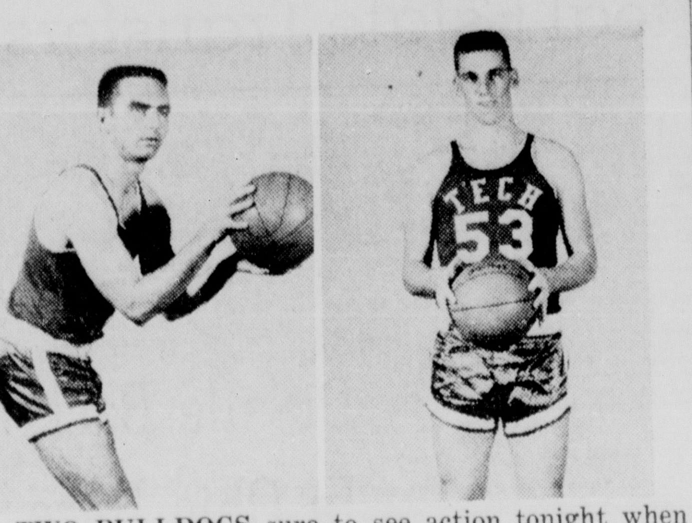
THE MOST ACCURATE Indians of them all are guards Jerry Snelling (left) and Stuart Toms. Senior Snelling leads Northeast in field goal percentage with a sparkling 60.6 while junior Toms is the top Indian free throw shooter with 89.6 per cent. Snelling, from Converse, and Toms, from Quitman, are slated for action tonight when Northeast hosts Louisiana Tech.



TWO BULLDOGS sure to see action tonight when La. Tech clashes with Northeast State here in Monroe are the Canines' leading scorer Jackie Fair (left), a senior guard with a 15.1 average and Ruston freshman Jerry Hood. Hood, a 6-4 all-stater on the Bearcats state championship team last year, has been averaging 8.9 points per game.

IN BROWN HALL GYM

Northeast State Cagers Clash With Louisiana Tech Tonight

Northeast State and Louisiana Tech clash in a Gulf States Conference basketball game in Brown Hall Gym tonight that should be a lot hotter than the weather.

Tipoff time is 7:30 p.m.

Tech's Bulldogs got off to one of their worst starts in history this season, losing their first eight games, and have a 1-9 record while Northeast has a 6-5 mark. But the two teams are even in GSC play, both with 1-1 records, both came out about the same against their only common opponent, McNeese. Tech lost a 60-54 overtime decision to the Cowboys in Lake Charles and Northeast lost a 77-67 battle to the 'Pokes, also in Lake Charles.

Cecil Crowley's Tech team has played a rugged schedule, losing two games to Mississippi of the Southeastern Conference and one to Mississippi State, one of the two unbeaten major college teams in the country.

Northeast's GSC victory came over Southeastern, 86-74, while Tech toppled Northwestern, 72-70, for its league triumph. The Techmen from Ruston lost to Centenary Thursday night in their latest contest, 65-61, while Northeast's less to McNeese Tuesday night in the Indians' latest outing.

The two rivals always produce a hard - fought game no matter what their records and a packed house is expected to watch tonight's contest, first of two between the clubs this season. They'll match shots again Feb. 16 in Ruston.

Last season Northeast swept both of its games with Tech, capturing a 59-53 decision at Ruston and copping a 61-57 verdict in Monroe.

Northeast's sparkplug this season has been all-GSC guard Lanny Johnson, the league's leading scorer with 21.5 average The Indians also have two of the circuit's top rebounders, 6-5 center Robert Cook, averaging 9.8 rebounds a game, and 6-4 Jimmy Walker, pulling down 7.6 a game.

Senior guard Jackie Fair is leading Tech in scoring with a 14.1 average and put in 17 points in the loss to Centenary Thursday. The Techmen have been getting good rebounding from big Jim Graves (6-5), 6-3 Joe Abendroth and 6-4 rookie Jerry Hood.

Coach Lenny Fant will probably open with his usual Northeast starters, Cook at center, Walker and Bob Groves (6-2) at forwards and Johnson (6-1) and Stuart Toms (5-11) at guards with Jerry Snelling (6-0), John Varino (6-3), Jerry Salley (5-10) and Milton Linder (6-3) also ticketed for duty.

Louisiana' Tech's probably starters are Graves at center, Robert Bretz (6-3) and Abendroth at forwards and Fair (5-11) and Ronnie McNabb (6-0) at guards. McNabb's name should ring a bell with Monroe cage fans. He was a standout cager at Neville High a few years back.

Points To Cut Grid Injuries Are Reported

CHICAGO (AP) — Six salient points for reducing football injuries were listed Friday in a report by Ernie McCoy of Penn State, chairman of the NCAA committee on sports injuries and safety.

They are:

1. A strong recommendation that coaches and those responsible for equipment, along with trainers and doctors, place increasing emphasis on the proper fit and proper wearing of equipment, and frequent checking of equipment. Research on improving the effectiveness of protective equipment should be a continuous process and supported by all concerned.

2. Coaches should recognize the necessity of developing a well-designed program of weight resistant exercises to increase the strength and size of the musculature of the neck and shoulders as well as the joints of the knee and ankle. Since most of the injuries occur in the first three weeks of practice, coaches should give enough time to conditioning and techniques of blocking and tackling to assure proper preparation of an athlete for hard contact work.

3. Since the injury study showed a high incidence of injuries early in the third quarter of a game, arrangements should be devised for at least a five-minute warmup for players starting the second half. Adequate warmups should also be provided before the game and for substitutes entering the game during its progress.

4. Properly fitted mouth protectors should be used and be considered a part of standard equipment.

5. Persons in charge of officials must emphasize that officials recognize "piling on" as described in the rules and call it as frequently as it occurs; and further that they recognize dangerous plays and be fearless in their penalties.

6. Support injury-pprevention clinics in co-operation with local and state American Medical Association chapters to increase the knowledge of treatment and rehabilitation of injured players as well as prevention.

Demons Get Hot In Second Half To Post Victory

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — Northwestern State spotted Southeastern Louisiana 11 points at half-time then clicked on all but 6 second period field goals to sweep to a 83-74 victory.

It was NSC's first Gulf States conference triumph and the 17th straight time it has beaten SLC in 8 years.

NSC, trailing 43-32 at intermission, had a scorching 52.7 per cent field goal game average to SLC's 44.6 per cent. NSC grabbed a 67-65 lead with 6:25 left and never lost the lead thereafter.

Glenn Colley's 27 points for NSC was high for the game. Wallace Waddell's 25 for SLC was tops.

NSC is now 1-2 in the GSC and 5-10 overall. SLC is 0-3 in the SGC and 4-8 for the season.

Ringgold Tilt At Ruston Set Back To Today

RUSTON (Special) — Ruston High's basketball game with Ringgold, scheduled for here last night, was postponed and will be played tonight.

Lawson Searington led Ruston in the win over Simsboro with 21 points. He was followed by all-starter Charles Shuffield with 18.

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Ten points down with four minutes to go, Texas Christian fought back to within one point of Arkansas only to fall before the basketball Razorbacks 64-61 Friday night.

With Arkansas nursing a one point lead, 62-61, TCU got the ball with 22 seconds to go. Phil Reynolds, the Frogs ace scorer, worked free for a shot but his 30-foot effort hit the rim and bounced out.

Cletics, Knicks Get Wins From Royals, Hawks

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics never trailed Friday as they outlasted the Cincinnati Royals for a 141-125 victory in the windup of a National Basketball Association doubleheader.

In the first game, a 43-point final period by the New York Knickerbockers gave them a pulsating 128-126 comeback win over the St. Louis Hawks.

Cincinnati's two-pronged offensive of Oscar Robertson and Jack Twyman was no match for the over-all performance of the Celtics.

Tom Heinsohn, with 32 points, topped Boston's scorers as six men hit double figures.

Detroit Nudges Chicago Quintet In 102-99 Win

CHICAGO (AP)—Gene Shue and Ray Scott paced a fourth quarter rally that lifted the Detroit Pistons to a 102-99 victory over the Chicago Packers in a National Basketball Association game Friday night.

An estimated crowd of 2,500 at the International Ampitheatre saw the Pistons bounce back from a nine-point deficit in the second half to defeat the Packers.

The Packers, who had balanced scoring, moved to a 29-28 first quarter advantage and expanded it to a 48-43 intermission head. Chicago moved ahead in the third quarter and held a 70-61 lead before some fine outside shooting by Shue and Don Ohl whittled this margin to 75-74.

The game seesawed in the final quiter until Scott's basket gave Detroit the victory.

Walt Bellamy scored 27 points leading the Packers, and Woody Sauldsberry contributed 20.

Southern Nips Jackson, 86-80

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Johnny Burkes said 15 points to pace Southern to an 86-80 victory over Jackson State Friday night.

Don Smith of Jackson State was high man, tallying 32 points before he fouled out in the second half.

The victory raised Southern to an overall 8-6 mark and a 3-2 record in the Southwestern Athletic Conference. Jackson State now is 11-3 overall and 2-3 in the SWAC.

Dave Styron 60 Winner In Houston Meet

HOUSTON (Special) — Dave Styron of Northeast State won the 50-yard dash at the Bluebonnet Indoor Track Meet here last night, nosing out Ralph Alspaugh of the University of Texas. Both were clocked at 6.2.

Two other Indian tracksters, Dave's twin brother Don and distance man Buddy Eiland, did not compete as planned due to colds.

Results on the performance of Tribe pole vaulter John Pennel were not obtainalbe last night. The last events did not get underway until 11 p.m.

Behind Styron and Alsbaugh was Boyd Timmons of the University of Houston freshman team, clocked at 6.3, and Overton Williams of Texas Southern. Williams time was 6.4.

Both Indian cindermen ran as independents.

Don Styron was slated to compete in the 60-yard hurdles and Eiland the 1,000 yard run.

The 60-yard dash was Dave's only race and Pennel was to enter only the pole vault.

Alsbaugh defeated Dave in the 60-yard event in the last Sugar Bowl track meet.

Meeting Of Big Eight Postponed

The reorganizational meeting of the Big Eight league set for Monroe Sunday has been postponed.

The meeting was to have been held at the Holiday Inn here at 3 p.m. for managers of teams interested in entering the league.

It will be rescheduled at a later date.

The Big Eight functioned in North Louisiana for many years as a summer outlet for baseball players of college age and beyond.

It died out and was replaced by the La-Ark league, which in turn underwent operational difficulties last summer.

However, many officials connected with North Louisiana baseball feel that the Big Eight, which is to receive help from major league clubs, may be the answer to a permanent program.

Irish Encounter Rams; Rayville, Meets Baskin

The St. Matthew's high school basketball teams travel to Bastrop tonight, weather permitting, for a couple of hardwood battles with the Bastrop Rams.

Girls get the action started with a preliminary contest at 7 p.m. and the boys' match follows at 8 p.m.

St. Matthew's had to postpone its home game with Simsboro last night because of bad weather conditions, and Bastrop also postponed its home-court tilt with Ouachita last night for the same reason. Both matches will be rescheduled later.

In other action tonight, Rayville hosts Baskin in a game that was just scheduled this week. A boys B game starts at 7 p.m. and the varsity battle is at 8.

Roster Almost Full Orioles Pre-Season

BALTIMORE (AP)—The preseason roster of the Baltimore Orioles, released Friday, lists five players picked up in recent deals and seven youngsters who made their professional debuts in the Oriole farm system last year.

The 39-player roster, one under the allowable limit, does not include Steve Barber, Ron Hansen and Barry Shetrone who are in the Army.

Heading the veteran newcomers is Johnny Temple, the 1961 American League all-star second baseman who was obtained in a trade with the Cleveland Indians.

The roster includes 16 pitchers, six catchers, 10 infielders and seven outfielders. Spring training will begin Feb. 20 at Miami.

Bob Goalby Retains Lead In San Diego Open Meet

By BOB MYERS

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Playing in weather that ranged from excellent to miserable, golfer Bob Goalby retained a two-stroke lead over the field at the midway point Friday in the $25,000 San Diego Open.

Goalby broke par by only one stroke with a 70, but thanks to his first round 65 he finished with a 36-hole total of 135. The personable, 30-year-old described his round as erratic, but the weather was even more freakish.

For the second day the start of play was delayed more than an hour because the greens were too frozen.

The skies were bright blue and the air brisk but late in the afternoon heavy clouds formed. Among those caught in the gathering gloom and cold of dusk was Mike Souchak. He had a chance to threaten Goalby's lead but finished with a 72 for 139.

Auto owners parked near the 18th green were asked to turn on their lights to help the last golfers find the way home.

At the windup, Masters champion Gary Player of South Africa and youngish Doug Sanders were tied at 137, Sanders with a 66, the lowest score of the day, and Player with a 68. Three strokes back of Goalby were Don Massengale (68), Johnny Pott (67) and Jay Hebert (69).

Others of the better known performers were farther back. Tied at 141 was Arnold Palmer, last year's winner here, who shot a 69, and National PGA champion Jerry Barber with a 70.

U.S. Open champion Gene Littler had a 72 for 142 while Phil Rodgers, the surprise winner of the Los Angeles Open, shot his second straight 70 for 140.

Jack Nicklaus, who gave up his National Amateur title to turn pro, had his best round in money play, a 69 for 141.

The setting was the par 35-36—71 Stardust Country Club.

Goalby holed three 10-foot putts for birdies but 3-putted two greens and lost another stroke to par in a trap for his 35-35—70.

Sanders had an amazing putting round. He holed one putt 30 feet, two from 20 and another from 15 feet out. His rounds were 31-35—66.

Player was on all the par 5 holes in two shots and got birdies. On the third hole he sank a 40-footer to get par 4 and on the 18th he sank a 25-footer for a birdie.

"That 40-foot putt was very important because I could have just as well made a double bogey six if I had 3-putted," Player said.

The 139 bracket was crowded with such players as Souchak, Art Hunt, old timer Lloyd Mangrum, and young Tommy Aaron. The later had a 30 on the first nine, the lowest of the tournament for nine holes.

Bob McAllister of Yorba Linda, Calif., scored his first hole in one on the 186-yard fifth hole. It helped him to a 72 for 142.

Scores of 144 qualified for Saturday's third round.

The roll of better known players who failed to qualify for the final round included Jack Buruke Jr., Bob Rosburg, Jacky Cupit, with scores of 146; Jim Ferrie, 147, Billy Maxwell, 148; England's Eric Brown, 149, and Cary Middlecoff, 150.

LSU Loses 84-63 To Kentucky Five

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky got off to a flying start and captured its 11th straight victory, defeating Louisiana State 84-63 before 12,000 fans Friday night in a Southeastern Conference basketball game.

The nationally third-ranked Wildcats took an 8-0 lead in the first four minutes of play and LSU never recovered. Cotton Nash paced Kentucky with 26 points.

It was Kentucky's 12th victory of the season in 13 starts and third straight in the SEC. LSU is now 7-5 over-all and 2-1 in conference play.

Kentucky hit a hot 50 per cent in the first half while the Tigers could connect on but 22.9 per cent, and that proved the eventual difference.

The Wildcats led 41-22 at intermission after once holding a 21-point lead.

George Nattin, a sharpshooting back court man, paced LSU with 14 points, while Howard Keene and Jack Belcher each had 11.

The Wildcats connected on 44.9 per cent from the field for the game while the Tigers hit 32.1.

LSU started a comeback midway of the second half and sliced Kentucky's lead to 15 points at 54-39 with 13:47 remaining.

Kentucky immediately ran up its lead to 69-44 and the Tigers couldn't recover.

The longest lead of the game for Kentucky was 27 poits, 75-48, with 3:50 remaining.

The Wildcats put a tight defense in the first half limiting LSU to few good shots at the basket.

LSU strength under the boards kept the game from being a complete run-away as 6-foot-10 Tom Conklin tipped in three baskets in the first half.

The shooting of Nash and Larry Pursiful, with 12 points in the first period, put Kentucky out of reach in the opening minutes of play.

Touchdown Club Presents Awards

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Big names of sports and politics will mingle Saturday night at the 27th annual awards dinner of the Washington Touchdown Club.

Marking the change in administration from Republican to Democratic, Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson will be the featured speaker. Last year, the then vice president, Richard M. Nixon, held the spotlight.

One of Johnson's tasks at the black-tie dinner will be to give Rep. Joseph W. Martin, R-Mass., the first "Mr. Sam" Award, given a government official for outstanding contribution to sport.

The award is named in memory of the late House speaker, Sam Rayburn of Texas. Rayburn was a regular at the touchdown club awards dinners.

Others selected by the club for 1961 honors include Ernie Davis of Syracuse, college back of the year; Joe Romig of Colorado, college lineman of the year; Dr. John Bateman of Rutgers, college coach of the year; Gary Collins of Maryland, outstanding college player in the Washington area, and Greg Mather of Navy, for outstanding contribution to Washington area sports.

From the pro ranks, the National Football League champion Green Bay Packers swept the honors. Green Bay halfback Paul Hornung was chosen pro player of the year and Packer Coach Vince Lombardi was selected pro coach of the year.

Alabama, with Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant accepting the award, will be honored as the outstanding major college team of the year, and Coach Lee McLaughlin of Washington & Lee will accept the award for the small college team of the year.

Dignitaries making presentations include Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of the Army Elvis J. Stahr Jr., Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth, Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas and Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo.

Baseball will flash briefly on the scene with the awarding of two Clark Griffith Memorial Trophies to Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals and Whitey Ford of the New York Yankees baseball team, have been chosen "players of the year" by the Washington Touchdown Club.

Bulldogs Host McNeese In GSC Battle

LAFAYETTE (Special) — The largest home crowd of the season is expected to file into Blackham Coliseum tonight when the University of Southwestern Louisiana Bulldogs host the strong Cowboys from McNeese State.

The contest looms as one of the most exciting and important games of the season for the Bulldogs and Cowboys. Each team has won two Gulf States Conference games, and the winner of the week-end clash is expected to be a close contender for the 1962 GSC crown.

The Cowboys, with an 8-2 GSC record, won the title last year for the 4th time in 6 years. They won in 1956-57- and '58.

Coach Beryl Shipley's Bulldogs, number 2 in the GSC finish last year with a record of 7-3, split in two meetings with the cowpokes. McNeese took the first game 59-47 on their home court in Lake Charles. Five games later, the Bulldgos evened the two game series with a 72-53 victory in Blackham Coliseum.

The Cowboys are paced by veteran John Riddile, 6-6 senior, who currently has a scoring average of over 14 points per game. Jimmie Shields, a 6-1 junior and two year letterman from New Orleans has scored 168 points in 15 games for the Lake Charles Cowpokes. Returning to the McNeese squad for his senior year is Don Troutman, 6-2 three-year letterman who has a 10 point-plus average this season.

With the strongest defensive record in the conference, Coach Ralph Ward's team ranks among national leaders. The Cowpokes have allowed only 55.3 points per game for their 15 opponents.

Cowboys First In GSC With Good Defense

LAKE CHARLES (Special) — Things are normal in the Gulf States conference's basketball race.

McNeese State College's Cowboys are leading the six - team circuit in defense — and are dead last in offense.

That has been the pattern at McNeese since Coach Ralph Ward took charge of Cowboy cage fortunes 10 years ago. The Pokes are strong on defense, and generally do not score as many points as their opposition does during the whole season.

The Pokes have won more than their share, however, and other statistics reveal why they are topping the circuit again this season.

McNeese is also in first place in field goal shooting and in free try shooting.

In 15 games so far this season, McNeese has given up an average of only 55.3 points per game. That puts them in the driver's seat in conference defense, and ranks them among the national leaders.

On offense, McNeese has averaged 62.4 points per game — nearly eight points per game more than they have allowed their opposition to score. On a season average, however, that ranks last among GSC teams for whom figures are available.

McNeese is out in front in field goal shooting, having converted 48 per cent of its attempts from the floor. The Pokes also have been handiest at the free throw line, dunking 72.9 per cent of their charity tosses.

Northwestern's Demons have the best offensive mark in the circuit, averaging 81 points per game for 12 games. Northeast's Indians have the top rebounders, and have averaged 49.1 pickoffs per start in 10 games.

Here are figures for all teams, except Southeastern:

Colt Back Claims Disability From Football Injuries

BALTIMORE (AP) — Halfback Lenny Moore of the Baltimore Colts claims he has suffered "permanent disability" from football injuries.

However, the all-pro of the National Football League says he will be back playing next season. In fact, he's scheduled to perform Sunday in the all-star game in Los Angeles.

Moore's claims of permanent disability are technical. They were filed with the Maryland Workmen's Compensation Commission.

The state accident fund has requested that hearings be held to determine the extent of Moore's disability.

H. Morton Rosen, lawyer for Moore, said the claims were filed "strictly for the protection of his client."

He listed the injuries to a finger on Moore's right hand, his left foot, his left hand and his head. The head injury caused Moore to sit out the last Colt game of last season at San Francisco.

"A football player is no different than a person working in private industry," said Moore's lawyer. "If a player is hurt on the job, he is as entitled to compensation as an industrial worker."

The compensation law, continued Rosen, is designed to protect an employe against injuries "in the scope of his employment, whether it be in a plant or on a playing field."

O'Boyle Adds 2 More To Tulane Coaching Staff

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Tulane football coach Tmomy O'Boyle named two more assistants Friday to bring the number of aides for the season to five.

O'Boyle, in Chicago for the collegiate coaches' convention, appoints Jim Royer, ex-Navy star who served this past season as line coach at the University of Buffalo, and Fred Wallner, former Notre Dame and Chicago Cardinal tackle who had been head line coach the past two years with the Houston Oilers of the American Football League.

Previously named assistants include Johnny Rauch, O'Boyle's chief aide; Don Watson, defensive backfield coach; and Jim Carmody, holdover freshman coach.

O'Connell Signs Senator Contract

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Senators signed their fourth player Friday, infielder Danny O'Connell. Contract terms were not disclosed.

Signed as a free agent by the new team last year, the 32-year-old O'Connell played regularly all season. He started at second base, then switched to third when the team obtained Chuck Cottier from Detroit.

West Favored In NFL's 12th Annual Pro Bowl Tilt

By JOE ST. AMANT

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The West was rated a favorite Friday to beat the East All-Stars in the National Football League's 12th annual Pro Bowl but anything can happen in this clash between two dream teams.

Las Vegas, Nev., bookies quoted the West as a 6½ point favorite in the game Sunday at Memorial Coliseum. Locally, the West was given only a 3-point edge.

In the 11 games to date, neither side in recent years has scored a runaway victory. The largest margin was 20 points when the West won in 1953, 27-7. Last year the West Squeaked through with a 35-31 victory. There was another close one in 1956 when the East won 31-30.

The West now has a 7-4 edge in victories.

The squads have rookie head coaches this year—for the East it's Allie Sherman of the New York Giants, the Eastern Conference champions, and for the West it's Norm van Brocklin, fresh from the playing ranks, as headman of the Minnesota Vikings.

Both coaches admit their jobs are easy—that is, there's nothing much they can tell the seasoned pros among the 68 players on the two squads.

Each will be out to win, of course, and the players have a chance for a little extra money here. Each winer gets $800—$200 more than each loser.

Sherman is expected to start at the key quarterback position his own bald eagle, Y. A. Tittle. Van Brocklin will go with Bart Starr, quarterback of the NFL champion Green Bay Packers.

These passers will have ideal protection and ideal receivers. Tittle, backed up by quarterback Milt Plum of the Cleveland Browns, will be tossing to such spectacular receivers as Del Shofner of the Giants, Tommy McDonald of the Philadelphia Eagles, and Sonny Randle of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Starr, who gets the starting call over Baltimore's Johnny Unitas, will have as targets Jon Arnett of the Los Angeles Rams, Lenny Moore o fthe Colts and Jim Phillips of the Rams among others.

Unitas, who had one of his worst seasons in 1961, was named the outstanding player of the past two Pro Bowl games and is sure to see some action.

The game starts at 4 p.m. EST and will be televised nationally (NBC) with local outlets blacked out.

TO PRESIDENT KENNEDY

Floyd Tells Who Next Opponent Is

WASHINGTON (AP) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson let President Kennedy in on a secret Friday.

Patterson told newsmen he let the President know who his next opponent will be.

"I told him, but it's not for the press," Patterson said.

Sonny Liston has been mentioned as Patterson's most probable next opponent, but the champion refused to be pinned down to him. He mentioned several other possibilities.

For the press, he had only the information that he would defend his title in June in some large city. He mentioned New York, Chicago and California, without saying which city in that state.

The President felt Patterson's arm, and, according to the champion, commented that Patterson looked to be in pretty good shape.

"Which I am," Patterson commented.

If he wins his next bout, Patterson said, he plans to go to Sweden for a series of exhibitions for various charities.

Patterson visited the White House in connection with Big Brother Week and plans to attend a dinner here Jan. 23 honoring John B. Duncan, a District of Columbia commissioner, for his work in combatting juvenile delinquency.

Patterson related to Kennedy how he is financing Patterson House in New York to help boys who have been released from correctional institutions.

"As you all know, I was down myself," Patterson said.

Later, Patterson called on the President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy. Again he turned aside newsmen's questions about whom he will meet in his next fight.

"I'll call a press conference when I have something to say about that," he said.

Patterson's meeting with the attorney general, also in connection with Big Brother Week, was a brief, jocular affair.

Kennedy, a middleweight touch football player, set the tone of the meeting when a photographer trying to pose him with Patterson ordered, "Hold up your right hand so he can pretend he's afraid of it."

"Who?" quipped the attorney general, "him or me?"

Experts To Test Shock Received By Grid Helmets

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Star linebacker Joe Schmidt of the Detroit Lions will be wired for sound—and shock — in Sunday's Pro Bowl game of the National Football League at Los Angeles.

Schmidt's helmet will be rigged with a tiny radio transmitter and accelerometer (for measuring shock). The equipment resembles that used by U.S. space experts in telemetering critical data back to earth from their astronauts.

The banging that Schmidt takes on the head will be noted by two Northwestern University experts conducting the experiment. The research directors are Drs. Stephen Reid, Northwestern team physician and former Wildcat star guard, and James S. Aagaard, assistant professor of electrical engineering.

Aagaard emphasized this first test is designed to reveal no medical data. Instead, it will test out the electronic setup which will telemeter data to the sidelines on the shock Schmidt absorbs.

Later, tiny EEG (electro-encephalogram) apparatus is expected to be added, to send brain-wave data to the sidelines as well.

Reid said the purpose of the research is to establish minimum standards of performance for headgear.

Eagle Star Turns Down Offers By Broncos Of AFL

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Tom Brookshier, defensive star of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, said Friday he had turned down offers to become an assistant coach or a player with the Denver Broncos of the American Football League.

Brookshier's name was mentioned in Denver among choices to succeed Frank Filchock, fired Thursday as the Broncos' head coach. He said he had not been an applicant for that position.

The former University of Colorado star and all-NFL defensive halfback suffered a broken leg in a game against Chicago here midway through the 1961 season. Brookshier said he still wants to play for the Eagles, subject to healing of the injury. The leg still is in a cast.

Meanwhile, Brookshier has been employed here as a sportscaster.

Sam Jones Named To Replace Costello

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Sam Jones, Boston Celtics guard, has been named by the National Basketball Association to replace injured Larry Costello on the East team in the NBA All-Star game.

Collegiate Sports Officials Fire Volley At AAU

CHICAGO (AP) — Collegiate sports officials fired another volley at the AAU Friday in a round table discussion on formation of federations in track and field, basketball and gymnastics.

The federations would embrace the AAU but no single group would control them. Officials said invitations to join have been ignored by the AAU. The AAU's stand as governing body in the promotion and development of national athletes is what is under attack.

Some round table notes:

Chick Werner of Penn State, president of the National Collegiate Track Coaches Association — "It's amazing to know how severely we have been criticized for our haste in forming a federation, but virtually the same arguments against the AAU were brought up by the Western Track Coaches Association in 1928. A well known tactic of the AAU is delay.

"We are not talking in any terms of boycotting the AAU. But if the AAU ignores our invitation to join our federation there is the possibility of the federation holding its own track championships this summer at the same time, and in opposition to, the National AAU meet.

"Our only purpose for a rival meet would be to show the international federation who really has control of amateur athletics in this country.

"The AAU is in the position to say that unless an athlete does not qualify in its track meet he will be ineligible for international competition. Also what if a world record is set in a federation meet? The AAU is the official body certifying such a mark. These are questions unanswered."

Law Becomes Fifth Pirate To Sign Pact

PITTSBURGH (AP) -- Pitcher Vernon Law has signed his 1962 contract with the Pittsburgh Pirates, making him the fifth Pirate to come to terms, the club announced Friday.

Law won 20 games for the Pirates in 1960—their championship year. But last year he was plagued with arm trouble that finally put him on the disabled list on July 7.

WITH AAU COMPETITION

Collegiate Track Leader Threatens Meet Conflict

By DON WEISS

CHICAGO (AP)—The leader of the nation's collegiate track coaches threatened Friday to hold a meet in conflict with the National AAU competition to select athletes for the U.S.-Russia dual meet this summer unless the AAU "accepts representation on the new track and field federation."

"If we are forced to a federation in opposition, without AAU representation, there would have to be two meets with the top two athletes in each event selected from them," said Chick Werner, president of the National Collegiate Track Coaches Association.

Louis J. Fisher, president of the AAU, said such a plan not only would endanger the Russian-U.S. meet but the 1964 Olympic Games also.

He said athletes who participated in any NCAA-federated meet would not be certified to participate in the dual meet with the Russians.

The full membership of the NCAA convention, meeting in Chicago, will endorse federations in track, basketball, and gymnastics Saturday in the continuing struggle with the AAU.

"They would have to be held on the same day because we would have to show the AAU that they can no longer control track and field in the U.S.," Werner added.

"You can imagine what kind of a tryout meet the AAU would have if the colleges, high schools and other groups that support our federation plans were competing the same day or days in the federation meet."

The U.S.-Russia meet is scheduled for Stanford University in July. Under the present system of AAU control, which the NCAA is fighting in several sports, college athletes are subject to selection by the AAU for international competition.

"This could all be prevented," Werner said after a round-table discussion, "if the AAU accepts our invitation for equal representation on the new federation."

When asked why the track coaches were taking such a step when it could damage the prestige meet with Russia, the first big international event on the U.S. athletic calendar this year, Werner said:

"At what point do we start? If we start now, it may damage the Russian meet. If we wait a year or so, it will damage the Pan-American Games and the Olympics.

"There must be a point of no return. We notified the AAU of what we wanted, what our coaches favored by a 548-9 vote. They chose not to do anything, except offer us a few advisory places on committees. The AAU track and field committee is a recommending group. The voting power is all with the upper echelon, and on that they offered us one vote while the AAU would retain 10.

"We have now passed the point of no return. Either they join with us in the formation of a federation acceptable to all, or we will be forced to a federation in opposition."

Fisher, a High Point, N.C., attorney, who is serving his first term as head of the AAU, said of Werner's comments:

"Mr. Werner and others within the NCAA are creating a situation that will endanger the Olympic Games in 1964, and we will hold them responsible for the position they are taking and the sabotaging of our championships.

"When they try to overthrow a group like the AAU, who have kept our nation on top in basketball, track and field for 74 years, obviously there will be a fight. And, obviously, no one can make improvements by fighting."

Fisher said, "Mr. Werner should know that no one can represent the United States in the dual meet with Russia unless he is first qualified by the AAU in a National AAU Championship meet.

"This meet was planned between Russia and the U.S. as one of the exchanges arranged by the AAU at the request of the Department of State. Thus, qualification by athletes will be only through the AAU.

"If the NCAA competitive meet proposal is adopted, it can only result in depriving some of our best athletes of a chance at international competition. It will be the individual athlete who suffers."

Fisher again said the AAU would welcome a government probe of the NCAA-AAU dispute, and charged that the NCAA doesn't want such a probe.

He said Werner appeared before the AAU executive committee in Washington last Dec. 3 and said the National Collegiate Track coaches Association wanted representation on the AAU foreign relations and national track and field committees. He was informed that 33 college coaches already were on those committees. He apparently didn't know that. But we also told him if he would submit a list of persons he wanted on those committees, we would be glad to appoint them. We had not since heard from Mr. Werner."

In other convention business, Jim Corbett of Louisiana State, chairman of the NCAA television committee, recommended adoption of a two-year controlled program of football telecasts for the 1962-63 season similar to that in effect for 1960-61. Corbett said sealed bids will be asked from the national networks, probably within a month to six weeks.

The American Broadcasting Co. paid about $6.5 million for the right to telecast the two-year package just expired.

ASKED ROBINSON

'Who Says League Is Weaker Now?'

By STEVE SNIDER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Sports of all sorts:

Brooks Robinson of the Baltimore Orioles says American League pitching may have been weaker because of expansion last year but "you couldn't prove it by me" . . . "I hit .230 against the new club in Los Angeles and .240 against the new Washington Senators—but .290 against the seven old clubs."

Robinson, who led the American League in third base fielding last season, nevertheless calls Clete Boyer of the Yankees the best in the business at that position . . . "His arm is stronger than mine," says Brooks . . . "He can throw 'em out while he's on one knee . . . I have to get on my feet to make the same plays."

The New York Mets have decided to dress their players in Yankee-type pinstripe uniforms for their first season in '62 — and thereafter . . . Uniforms numbers are being assigned the new club's players but a spokesman said, "not a single man requested a number he had on his old club—not even Casey Stengel."

Golf star Patty Berg is preparing for her 31st year of competitive golf . . . "I had eight years as an amateur and 22 as a pro," says Patty, "every one of them wonderful years."

Bobby Shantz, whose pitching for the Yankees and Pirates in recent years has been mostly in relief, wants to be a starter for the new Houston Colts . . . "I think I can win for 'em," said the little lefty.

Live cowboy stuff: Benny Reynolds of Melrose, Mont., was the year's top money winner on the rodeo circuit in 1961 with $31,309 . . . Calf roper Dean Oliver of Boise, Idaho, was second at $28,015—all with his rope.

California, which leads the nation in providing major league baseball players, also has the most "little leagues"—783 . . . New York was second last year with 566 followed by Texas (433) and Illinois (307).

Hal Schumacher, the old pitcher who now manufactures baseball bats, reports today's major leaguers prefer a 32-ouncer and only a few ask for any as heavy as 37 ounces . . . "Thirty - seven was more like the average in my day," he says . . . Hal believes the light, thin-handled bat now has reached just about the ultimate because "if they get any more whip in a bat it would be like swinging a rubber hose."

Canada is worried about the ability of the hockey team it's sending to the world championships at Colorado Springs in March . . . There are plenty of great ones there, naturally, but none were available (or could meet Simon-pure amateur rating) for the world meet . . . Canadian coach admits, "we could finish as low as sixth" . . . However, Canada, Russia and Czechoslovakia are the three title favorites.

The Cleveland Indians report first baseman Vic Power is "happy I wasn't traded . . . because I like to play in Cleveland and would like to show Cleveland fans that some of the things they said about me last summer were not so" . . . They said quite a bit as flashy Vic hit .268.

Official Says Brown Is Not Overworked

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Denying that work was heaped upon fullback Jim Brown as part of a trade scheme this past season, board chairman Art Modell of the Cleveland Browns said Friday "there must be a misunderstanding somewhere."

Brown, the National Football League's leading ground gainer, was quoted in Los Angeles Thursday as saying he felt the Browns planned to trade Bobby Mitchell, so Brown was given many of Mitchell's plays.

Melvin Durslag, Los Angeles Herald-Examiner sports writer, also quoted Brown as saying he may have a lucrative opportunity to act as a business representative in specialized markets.

"As far as (loading work on Brown) being part of a scheme, I have to say that is not so," Modell said. "That trade came about very late in the season.

"I was under the strong impression Jimmy likes to carry the ball as much as possible. I just don't understand this."

Modell said, "Certainly (coach) Paul Brown and myself will sit down, talk to Jimmy and try to persuade him he has a lot more football left. I like the man very much. If he decided not to play any more, it would be a great loss to the league, the Cleveland Browns and the public at large."

"Mel is a fine writer. I hope he didn't misinterpret some remarks of Jimmy's," Modell added.

Modell, who handles contracts for the Browns, said the fullback's two-year contract had expired, but expressed hope it would be renewed. "I'm sure he would be happy to play with us another year," he said.

Durslag said Jim Brown told him "I made more than 400 rushes and caught 46 passes. It was my roughest year in football." Brown is in Los Angeles for the Pro Bowl game Sunday.

San Diego Golfers Use Economy Play

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Economy in golf strokes was the theme of a threesome playing the par 5 10th hole in the San Diego Open Friday.

The trio, Stan Thirsk, Mission, Kan.; Paul Bonderson, Northbrook, Ill., and Wilk Homeniuk, Winnipeg, Can., required only 10 strokes to negotiate the hole.

Homeniuk chipped in off the edge of the green for an eagle 3. Thirsk exploded from a sand trap into the cup for another eagle. Then Bonderson sank a 3-foot putt for a birdie 4.

Her corsage was a yellow throated whie cattleya orchid.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the parish hall. The tiered white wedding cake with pink rosebuds topped by figures of a bride and groom was placed at one end of a white embossed linen covered table. A silver punch bowl was placed at the other end. A five branched candelabra holding white tapers centered the long table which was decorated with white camellias. Miss Cecil Hudnall attended the guest book.

For travel, the bride wore a winter white and brown wool suit with winter white hat and gloves, brown kid shoes and bag. Her corsage was the white orchid from her bouquet.

The couple will establish their home in Shreveport.

Luncheon Dates No Bother For Idaho Governor

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Nobody wants to have lunch with Idaho's governor. It's too much of a strain.

For most of the state's officials, the noon hour is a time for eating or transacting business.

"But not for me," said Gov. Robert E. Smylie, patting what he described as "one of the trimmest guvernatorial midsections in the country."

The 47-year-old Republican, who soon is expected to announce his candidacy for a third term, has traded most of his luncheon dates in the past two years for an hour and a half of strenuous exercise at the Boise YMCA.

"Now," he says, "I can go swimming without making apologies to my sons for the shape of my midriff."

YOUR PROBLEMS

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My wife and I are stumped. We need your help. Our 15-year-old daughter is friendly with a girl we never cared for. Just as we predicted, the girl got herself in trouble and had to quit school and get married two months before her 16th birthday.

The girl is in her eighth month now and she's enormous. She wears bobby socks and overalls and horses around with the high school kids at our house. My wife and I think this is revolting. We do not feel that an expectant mother is suitable company for our 15-year-old daughter and we have told her so.

Our daughter claims that we are snobbish. She insists that so long as the girl is married there is nothing wrong with being friendly with her. Please tell us what to do. We are —STYMIED

Dear Stymied: You've made too big an issue of this and your daughter is using it as a weapon of rebellion. The more you attack the friendship the more she will defend it.

Keep quiet from now on. Soon your daughter will find that she has little in common with a mother who is busy with diapers and teething rings. She'll then turn to friends whose interests are similar to her own.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been friendly with a couple for 12 years. We've gone on weekend trips together and actually they are our closest friends.

The man calls my husband Clyde (which is his name) but he calls me Mrs. — My husband has followed his lead and he calls the other woman Mrs. — also.

I told my husband last night that after 12 years this Mrs. routine seems terribly formal. He says it is up to the woman to invite the gentleman to use her first name and that since neither of us had done so the Mrs. routine will probably continue.

After 12 years how does one go about making such a request? Do you feel the other woman will think I am being bold if I suddenly ask her husband to call me Josephine? Thanks for your help. —NOT STUFFY

Dear Not: After 12 years I hardly think you could be considered bold if you asked a close friend to call you Josephine.

The other woman will probably be vastly relieved and will then ask your husband to call her Daisy—or whatever her name is. And I'd say it's about time.

Dear Ann Landers: During our noon hour three or four girls usually have lunch together. One girl is a fast eater. She always finishes before everyone else and immediately lights up a cigarette. This actually makes me nauseated.

I have nothing against smoking, in fact I smoke myself, but there's something about cigarette smoke blown in my face while I'm eating that is very unappetizing.

I don't care for this girl and I have a hunch the feeling is mutual. Do you think I have the right to tell her off, or does she have the right to smoke while others are still eating? —N. S.

Dear N. S.: Lighting up while others are still eating is rude, but I suspect you dislike the girl more than the cigarette smoke. Her personality probably irritates you and if she didn't smoke while you were eating you'd find something else to criticize.

Why don't you eat with another group?

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Fifteen years ago I left home (at the age of 20) to have a baby. (I was not married.) No one here knows about it. I passed myself off as a widow and raised my son alone. He is a fine well-adjusted lad. His father was a married man from whom I neither expected nor received any financial help in raising my boy. I have a very good position and have made a good name for myself in my community where I am known as "Mrs. So and So."

A prominent, successful man has become my admirer and he wants to marry me. I know I will have to tell him the truth about myself, but what about other people? There might be curiosity and probing about my "former husband," his family, etc. Would I sign my marriage certificate "Mrs. So and So," although I am not in fact legally that person? —MRS. SO AND SO

DEAR MRS. SO and SO: First, tell the man who wants to marry you about your past. If he loves you, it won't matter, and he will spare you the legal red-tape.

DEAR ABBY: I am going to be married soon. I would like to have a double-ring ceremony. The problem is that my future husband already wears a wedding ring on that very special finger. It was his mother's wedding ring. (She is now deceased.) He told me that he will never take that ring from his finger because she placed it there. Do you think this was fair of her? He says that he and I will be just as much married without his receiving a ring, too. Am I wrong in asking him to wear "my" ring instead of his mother's? Or is he wrong in his attitude? —LITTLE BUT STRONG

DEAR "LITTLE": You are wrong. Let your fiance wear his mother's ring.

DEAR ABBY: My neighbor has a four-year-old girl and I have a four-year-old boy. They play together all the time. The little neighbor girl swears like a trooper, and now my son has started to pick it up. You never heard such language from kids!

I don't believe in trying to discipline other people's children, but I don't know how else to stop her. Don't tell me to talk to the parents because I have heard this child cuss in front of her parents and they just laugh and think it's cute. It isn't possible to keep my child away from the playmate next door, so what's the answer? —CUSSED OUT

DEAR CUSSED: Tell your neighbors how your son has picked up some purple profanity somewhere and how it disturbs you. If they don't get the idea, let it go. Awkward though it may be, your four-year-old will survive the wickedness of his four-year-old temptress. And so will you.

Are things rugged? For a personal reply, write to Abby, C-O News-Star, and don't forget a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Order In Home A Good New Year Resolution

Order is one of the best sources of tranquility, and tranquility is one of the best sources of a happy home atmosphere.

So why not make a New Year resolution, with the entire family joining in, for order in the home?

There is nothing as effective as an orderly home for saving uncountable steps and innumerable small chores for the distaff side of the family.

The kitchen is the place where the average homemaker spends most of her daylight hours. This makes it a good place to start getting organized.

First of all, consolidate the work areas in the kitchen. Assemble the ingredients for preparing food in one area and store cooking appliances (toaster, waffle iron, percolator and others) near the range so that they can be used efficiently during the cooking process. If storage near the range is limited it might be a good idea to judge each item from the standpoint of frequency of use. The appliances that do not "earn" their storage space can be moved to a less accessible area.

You can also create more storage space in the kitchen by investing in a modern range. Most "special" cooking functions built into the oven, broiler or top burner sections and make it unnecessary to clutter closets and shelves with auxiliary appliances.

A range with a rotating spit for barbecuing and roasting, a baking oven with separate broiler, a temperature - controlled griddle and deep fat fryer, in addition to the regulation burners, will occupy as little as 24 inches of space.

Store china, glass, silver and table linens as near the dining area as possible. If you do not have a card file of recipes, make one. Invest in a lazy susan for spices and place it in a corner of the pantry shelf, with other seasonings nearby. Put a wire rack on the inside of the broom closet to hold cleaning products and cloths.

Put a decorative box in each child's room for the deposit of mittens and other small articles of wearing apparel that are easily misplaced and all too frequently left lying around in the living room.

Another and larger basket in the living room for newspapers and magazines will encourage Dad and the youngsters to join in the "order-in-the-house" project.

Keep a clothes hamper in or near the children's rooms for deposit of their soiled clothes, and another in the master bedroom for Dad's and Mom's things. A small bag on the inside of the clothes closet for hosiery and handkerchiefs will be an added convenience.

These suggestions will get you away to a good start on your tranquility program, and no doubt you'll have additional ideas of your own.

Vaccine Against TB Being Tested

BILOXI, Miss. (AP) — Dr. Harry E. Walker, research director of the American Thoracic Society and the National Tuberculosis Association, said Friday a vaccine for prevention of TB is being tested.

But Dr. Walker said it is still too early to predict the future of the vaccine. He addressed the sixth annual Tri-State Thoracic Consecutive Case conference.

The New York lung disease expert also said that the U.S. Public Health Service is optimistic about a new drug for treatment of TB contacts.

Judson Allred Jr., Jackson, Miss., executive director of the Mississippi Tuberculosis Association, said tuberculosis caused 156 deaths and 780 new cases in Mississippi last year.

RONNIE BRAHMS designed these modern additions for today's fast growing home libraries. Made of rattan and cane, they would be appropriate in any informal and casual room or in one which had, perhaps, a strong oriental influence. Particularly unusual is the steady movable ladder to take one to the top with no effort.

Books Deserve Special Setting Within The Home

By BETTY PEPIS

Shelf space will have to be made for the something like one billion, one hundred million new books which were purchased just during the past year. Since it's safe to figure no more than 16 average books to a foot, this means many miles of shelving will have to be added to libraries at home and elsewhere.

Though this increasingly insatiable desire to acquire books may seem a contradiction in this television age, nevertheless facts prove American book buyers are mutliplying rather than diminishing. And since so many of these sales are in paper backs — not always expendable since many are of the classics — it seems strange that no clever merchandiser or designer has come up with a special storage solution for these small tomes.

Oddly enough, too, the average development builder has largely ignored this growing storage problem in the interiors of new homes. The result: home furnishings writers get almost as many inquiries about what to do with books as on any other single subject, and a paper bound book devoted to the subject has been constantly in demand since its publication five years ago.

By far the most popular solution seems to be the installation of metal strips directly to the wall. Brackets stuck into holes in these strips hold shelves in a choice of materials ranging from wood planking to clear glass, five eighths of an inch thick. These strips and brackets, originally designed for store display cases some 35 years ago, have only recently invaded the home. Their popularity is due to the ease of installation, which can be accomplished by an amateur.

There are times, in rental buildings, for example, or with families frequently on the move, when built-ins are not the solution. In recent months we've noted a revived interest in the tall secretary desk, which has space for books above the writing surface. These graceful secretaries usually in the Sheraton style — or an equivalent American intepretation —are best suited to more tradition al, formal rooms.

An interesting addition for a more casual interior are the tall slender cases designed by Ronnie Brahms for Willow and Reed. Made of rattan, they can be pushed together to give the feeling of a built-in wall. Because these depend upon their height for effect, Mr. Brahms has designed, to go with them, a modern version of old - fashioned library stairs.

Drastic Shakeup Of Army Slated

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The administration will announce next Tuesday a shakeup in the Army department so controversial it is certain to bring protests from Army officers and meet criticism in Congress.

Contemplated for years, the reorganization is so touchy that former Defense Secretary Robert A. Lovett once said it would be no more painful for government leaders than backing into a buzz saw. But he agreed it should be carried out.

The final plan was developed by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and approved by President Kennedy. Chiefly affected are such old line technical services as the ordnance, chemical, quartermaster, signal and transportation corps.

Asked about the plan, a Defense Department spokesman said the Army would "have something to say about this" Tuesday.

Some details of the plan have been leaking out for weeks. The authoritative Army - Navy - Air Force Journal said Friday that the reorganization already had "drawn sharp protests from a number of senior officers."

The office of the chief of engineers, which is responsible for civilian and military construction projects, and the office of the surgeon general, will hold their own. But other technical services will disappear or be absorbed in new commands.

The plan calls for two new commands—material development and logistics command, and combat developments command. The continental Army command will take over nearly all training including that now conducted by technical services.

A new office of personnel operations in the Army general staff will control career planning and officer assignments.

The plan is designed to reduce operating functions of the Army general staff and let it concentrate on planning and policy-making.

The offices of chief of ordnance and chief chemical officer will be eliminated. The quartermaster will have little to do except supervise Army cemeteries. Signal corps and transportation corps chiefs will become staff officers to the Army secretary.

Ordnance and transportation corps functions largely will be absorbed in the new logistics command.

Just before he left office in 1952, Lovett sent a memorandum to then President Harry S. Truman in which he said the technical services overlapped and complicated the problem of administration and control.

Lovett said he was amazed that the system worked at all, and added: "A reorganization of the technical services would be no more painful than backing into a buzz-saw but I believe that it is long overdue."

Judge Extends Date For Parks Desegregation

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—U.S. District Judge H. Hobart Grooms extended Friday the deadline for integration of Birmingham's public recreation facilities by 50 days.

Acting on his own volition, he extended the deadline from next Monday until March 15.

Although he received no formal appeal from any interested parties, the judge took note that "many citizens of the city of Birmingham have interested themselves in an attempt to solve the problem arising out of the closing."

The closing of the recreation facilities followed the judge's original integration order last fall. The Birmingham Parks and Recreation Board slashed the operating budget, virtually assuring that most facilities would be closed.

Many already have been shut down, with community centers boarded up.

The city commission was urged by a delegation of prominent businessmen recently to ask for an extension of the judge's deadline.

But the commissioners turned down the plea, saying nothing could be gained from an extension.

But Grooms said in his order Friday:

"The court is of the opinion that it will be to the best interest of all the citizens of Birmingham, both white and colored, that the effective date of said order be postponed."

Warming Trend Routing Snow In Mississippi

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Above freezing temperatures in southern Mississippi Thursday melted a 3-day snow, bringing mushy travel conditions. Elsewhere, some highways and streets began de-icing despite cold weather.

Hazardous conditions were expected again Friday night as temperatures dropped down into the teens over most of the state.

A gradual warming trend which moved into the state early Friday was expected to send temperatures into the high 30s and low 40s Saturday.

The death toll stood at 13 after the three days of snowy, icy and near zero weather conditions.

The Weather Bureau recorded 2-tenths of a degree below zero in Jackson early Friday, a minus four at Yazoo City and zero at Meridian and Tupelo.

Much of the state remains covered by snow and sheets of ice. However, warming air was expected to bring mushy, melting conditions by Saturday even in the north.

Judge Takes CORE Case Under Study

BATON ROUGE (AP) —U. S. Dist. Judge E. Gordon West took under study Friday a request by local authorities to permanently enjoin the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) from holding demonstrations here like the one Dec. 15.

West gave counsel for local officials five days to file additional written arguments, and CORE attorneys an additional five days to do the same in answer.

Judge West told attorneys he would not delay taking action any longer than necessary after the 10-day period.

Counsel for CORE dropped the surprise of the day when they announced they would offer no witnesses, standing merely on the contention local officials failed to make their case.

Earlier, Sheriff Bryan Clemmons of East Baton Rouge Parish testified there was no doubt the Negro demonstrators led by CORE were "the aggressors."

The sheriff testified during the second day of the court trial of the request by authorities here to prevent CORE and other Negroes from holding anti-segregation demonstrations like the one police broke up with tear gas and dogs.

He described the crowd in the front of the courthouse here, where 23 other Negroes had been jailed, as in "a belligerent attitude."

Clemmons said he felt if the demonstrations hadn't been stopped, violence "would have happened a tany second. . .I fear it would if this happens again."

SPEAKER LUKEWARM

Liberals Confident On Steering Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Democratic liberals said Friday they are confident of achieving their goal of setting up a steering committee to advise and consult with the party leadership on legislative business.

Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, at his first formal news conference, gave a somewhat lukewarm endorsement to the idea. "I would have no objection if the Democratic caucus decides to do it," he said.

The speaker added that the way he sees it, a steering committee's purpose would be to cooperate with the leadership and "it logically follows that I think it could serve a useful purpose."

McCormack, almost immediately after his selection, ruled out the idea of a policy committee as a group that would dictate policy to his leadership and in effect supplant the powerful Rules Committee. That generally conservative group controls the flow of legislation to the House floor.

Rep. Chet Holifield of California, a strong supporter of the steering committee idea, told newsmen "there never was any thought of supplanting the Rules Committee." He said he is satisfied with the Rules Committee as it is now constituted and feels it will reflect the opinion of Congress on what bills should reach the floor.

Holifield made a sharp distinction between a policy committee and a steering committee: A confusion between the two terms may have given rise in the past few days to belief that McCormack was against any kind of committee, and wanted to run things his own way.

It was learned, however, that leading backers of the steering committee had met recently with McCormack and come to an understanding about reviving it. They said it would be worked out in a week or 10 days.

These sources said McCormack had agreed to a committee meeting these criteria: It would be democratically elected in the caucus with members from each regional division of the country, its function would be to advise and consult with the leadership on legislative business, and it would derive its power from the action of the party caucus.

Rep. Henry Reuss of Wisconsin, another leading committee backer, said he is confident establishment of the group is in the works and that it will be "effective and fruitful."

A steering committee was in existence when the late Speaker Sam Rayburn took over back in 1941, but it became moribund under his strong personal leadership.

HUNDREDS of fish numbed by icy waters at East Beach, Galveston, only a stone's throw from the South Jetty, were netted by commercial fishermen Thursday. The possibility of a "fish kill" similar to one in 1951 loomed today — thousands of live but helpless fish tossed onto the beach by an incoming tide. Above some 600 to 800 speckled trout and redfish of 2½ to nine pounds were scooped in one sweep. (AP Wirephoto)

Peru Fears New Deadly Avalanches

LIMA, Peru (AP) — Fearing new icefalls, the government Friday declared an emergency zone in the snowcapped Andean region where a mighty avalanche blotted out 16 villages and settlements in the space of eight minutes Wednesday.

Reports from the stricken death valley 200 miles northwest of Lima told of panic among the few survivors who escaped. The slide crashed from 22,205-foot Mt. Huascaran, setting in motion snow, water, mud and debris.

Estimates of the death toll still ranged from 2,000 up, but these were based on reports of persons missing. Only 50 bodies had been recovered from the yards-deep mud and debris that covered the villages of Ranrahirca and Huarascucho and 14 smaller settlements.

Only about 50 of Ranrahirca's 500 inhabitants escaped. Apparently 800 of Huarascucho's slightly larger population are missing.

A huge block of ice, loosened by Peru's summer suns, crashed into a gorge, gathered up tons of rock and ice and material of every description and with a tremendous roar gushed down a nine-mile course before it dumped its load on the peaceful farming and mining communities below.

It was but eight minutes from the time the residents heard the first crash until the avalanche engulfed the area.

About 7,00 people lived in the immediate vicinity of Huaylas Valley. The exact number of dead may never be known.

Roberto Thorndike, chairman of the Peruvian Red Cross, estimated the missing at 2,300, most of them presumably dead.

U.S. Ambassador James Loeb, who flew over the valley, reported estimates of missing and dead at 4,000. He reported only 20 injured had been hospitalized at Huaraz, the nearest city 30 miles to the south.

CAUSE NINE DEATHS

Europe Battered By Strong Gales

LONDON (AP)—Atlantic gales hammered Western Europe Friday, whistling around the Eiffel Tower in Paris, sending ships to shelter and bringing floods to rain-soaked Britain. The winds, which already have caused nine deaths, were expected to continue into Saturday.

London and Paris echoed to the sounds of banging garbage cans and falling roof tiles.

In the French capital, the meteorological service reported the wind reached a speed of 97½ miles an hour at the top of the 985-foot Eiffel Tower. The tower stood up to this test but it was no place for timid tourists.

In the Atlantic, ships of all sizes bucked their way against the weather. The crews of even large liners had their hands full.

The 27-000-ton Capetown Castle was six hours late in arriving at Southampton from South Africa. Her master, Capt. Alec Underdown, said he hit a storm in the Bay of Biscay and called it one of the worst he had ever experienced.

Part of the liner's rail was carried away by 2,000 crates of tomatoes and cucumbers that went over the side. Rolls of 20 degrees smashed crockery and sent furniture sliding about. A few passengers received cuts and bruises when they fell, but there were no serious injuries.

While coast towns took a battering, the weather was unseasonally warm inland. Much of Germany had almost springlike weather. Many Alpine resorts still were short of snow. Some places even had thaws. Avalanche warnings were issued in the mountains.

Italy felt the cold. Rome had a heavy hailstorm and Genoa experienced its first snow of the year. A windstorm during the night ripped down a circus tent at Orbetello, near Grosseto, but no one was injured.

In Britain, 48 hours of gale winds and rain produced flooding in many coastal regions. Some roads in Hampshire, Sussex and Essex were under a foot of water. Rivers in Exmoor were running bank high and flood patrols were keeping a special watch.

Trees and shattered fences blocked highways and railways in many parts of Britain. The wind reached a peak of 82 miles an hour on the Isle of Wight. The channel island of Guernsey had another rough day with high seas flooding coastal hotels and houses.

Teen-Agers Set Sale To Help In Dimes Drive

Ouachita Parish teen-agers will conduct their annual candy and balloon sale for the 1962 New March of Dimes on Monroe and West Monroe street corners today, Barbara Mulhearn, teens chairman, announced.

The teens candy and balloon sale is an important event in the annual campaign which continues through Jan. 31. Organized last year, in Ouachita Parish, the Teen - Age Council raised over $1,700 in the 1961 drive.

Sale of the candy and balloons will be conducted by Delta Beta Sigma, Lambda Sigma Chi and Delta Kappa Pi Sororities, Phi Kappa and Delta Sigma Phi Fraternities, the Neville Key Club, Neville Letterman's Club, the Neville Hy-Y's, the West Monroe Key Club, West Monroe Hi-Y's, and St. Matthews High School.

"Just as ours is the first generation to reap the major benefits from the Salk and Sabin vaccines, so will we be among the first to benefit from March of Dimes research into birth defects and arthritis," Miss Mulhearn stated.

"Our parents and grandparents bought polio protection by doing their part in the old March of Dimes, and this is our way of showing that we care enough to do our part in the New March of Dimes," she concluded.

Traffic Judge Wins New Trial

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — The Washington State Supreme Court Friday overthrew the conviction of former Seattle traffic Judge William H. Simmons of second-degree assault with attempt to rape.

The court, in a 8-1 decision, ordered a new trial for the 33-year-old jurist, ruling that he did not receive a fair trial the first time.

A King County jury found Simmons guilty of attempting to rape Betty Adams, 21, a Seattle housewife who had come to see him about a traffic ticket.

As a result of that trial, one of the most sensational in Seattle's history, Simmons was sentenced to serve 10 years in prison.

Simmons' appeal contended that 20 errors had been committed.

The court held that at least half of Simmons' 20 assignments of error had some merit.

New Plan For Promotions At Tech Reported

RUSTON (Special) — A new promotion plan featuring six steps for advancement has been instituted by Louisiana Tech's Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps.

The six steps are:

1. Pass a written test for the rank above that which the cadet currently holds.

2. Pass a performance test on his ability to execute drill and ceremonies.

3. Be recommended for promotion by his immediate commander.

4. Meet a promotion board where he is further questioned on pertinent information concerning his job and the functions of the cadet wing.

PARENTS KILLED

Nine Are Orphaned By Truck Accident

BATTLE LAKE, Minn. (UPI)— Nine children were orphaned Friday when a pickup truck with faulty headlights carried their misfortune - plagued parents to death in a roadside ditch.

The orphans ranged in age from 1 to 12. Their mother had been expecting another child.

The victims of the crash in this West Minnesota Lake country were Walter Baker and his wife, Regina, both 33.

Left facing an uncertain future were Pauline Bake, 12, Theresa, 11, Timothy, 9, Loretta, 8, Susan, 7, Jeffery, 6, Gerald, 3, Monica, 2, and Philip, 1.

An aunt and a neighbor took in the youngsters until after their parents' funeral. Other neighbors and merchants of Battle Lake rallied to provide needed clothing, food and medical care for the children.

"They want to stay together," said motherly Mrs. Joseph Klinnert.

She said the older children were "shocked and frightened at first, but now they're coming out of it."

Mrs. Klinnert took Theresa, Timothy, Loretta and Susan into her home. Pauline and the four younger children went to the home of Mrs. Albert Kaiser, sister of the dead mother.

"We can only keep them until after the funeral," Mrs. Klinnert said. "Then we'll have to find someone to take the poor dears in."

Mrs. Tula Ebbinghausen, a neighbor who helped Mrs. Kaiser with the other five, said the children would "need new clothes before they can go to the funeral—particularly shoes."

Baker and his wife were driving here early Friday when their pickup truck went off the road and flipped over in the ditch. Tony Schauss, driving ahead of the Bakers, said he saw the truck lights blink out and went back to find the truck overturned and the Bakers dead.

Mrs. Klinnert said Baker, a farmer and odds job worker, had one bad break after another. Fire destroyed part of the family's scantily furnished two-story home two years ago, leaving gaps between the nailed up boards in the upstairs bedroom where several children slept.

"He was a good worker," Mrs. Klinnert said, "but he just couldn't catch onto anything steady. . .he tried to see the children had the necessities."

12 Persons Are Hurt In Plant Blast

TUSCOLA, Ill. (UPI) —An explosion ripped through a chemical plant here Friday injuring 12 persons, one critically.

Company officials said no detailed information about the blast would be released until Saturday. Reporters and photographers who rushed to the scene were not allowed in the immediate area of the explosion. A spokesman said the action was taken for security reasons.

Cause of the blast was not given. No damage estimate was available from company officials at the sprawling United States industrial Chemical Corp. The explosion occurred in an ammonia plant.

Six persons were treated and released from the Jarman Memorial Hospital. Six others, one in critical condition with severe burns, were hospitalized. The other five suffered cuts and bruises and were hospitalized for observation.

A company spokesman said the explosion sounded like a "big bang."

Fire followed the explosion and state police at first considered ordering residents to move out of the neighborhood. Later they said no evacuation was necessary.

The explosion occurred in mid-afternoon. Ambulances from here and Atwood, Arthur and Arcola sped to the scene. The fire was reported under control within an hour.

FATE PLAYS DIRTY tricks — or so Glenn Maxwell probably thinks. The 7-year-old son of Mrs. Vernon Maxwell, 107 Inglewood Dr. in Monroe, fell the first day of the ice and snow and suffered a concussion. And he hasn't been able to go out since. Yesterday he watched from his window as neighborhood children built a snowman. He sure looks like he'd like to join. He was sent home from the hospital Thursday. Pictured at the snowman are Tommy Lee, Karen Lee, Dennis Surratt, Gay Maxwell and Ronnie Harbour. (Staff Photo by Ben Bradford)

Plane Hits TV Antenna, 5 Men Killed

CHIPPEWA FALLS, Wis. (AP) —A sleek executive airplane winging along just below a low overcast sliced into a soaring television transmitter tower Friday and sent five men spinning to their deaths.

Four of the men were officials of the Oscar Mayer Meatpacking Co. of Madison, en route to Rice Lake to inspect the products of an insulation materials factory there. The fifth was their pilot, an Air Force veteran employed by the Morey Aviation Co. of Middleton.

The victims:

Oren Slausen, 34, Middleton, the pilot.

William B. Ahern, 49, Madison, a development engineer.

Edmund G. Blair, 33, a project engineer.

Earl W. Blankenheim, 42, Sun Prairie, automotive supervisor.

John A. Weaver, 39, Madison, an assistant project engineer.

Deaths of the four executives orphaned 21 children. Blankenheim was the father of nine, Weaver of six, Ahern of four and Blair of two. Slausen was a bachelor.

The tower the five-place Cessna 310 hit in the fog is a community television relay, reaching up more than 400 feet from the highest point of land in the hilly terrain just northwest of the Chippewa Falls city limits.

The Wisconsin Aeronautics Commission has been involved in litigation with the Chippewa Cable Co. for more than a year over the structure. The state alleges that the tower was built without a permit, and that a permit was denied because the commission felt the tower would be a hazard to instrument flying.

The cable company contends the commission has no authority in the case, and an appeal from a lower court ruling is before the State Supreme Court, on the March calendar.

Apparently there were no eyewitnesses as the aircraft, one of two owned by the meatpacking firm, sheared the top of the tower in the fringer of the overcast.

Sukarno Gets Warning From Aussie Leader

CANBERRA, Australia (UPI)— Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies Friday gave President Sukarno of Indonesia an implied warning that Australia will fight if East New Guinea is attacked during any Indonesian attempt to "liberate" Dutch West New Guinea by force.

Menzies' veiled caution to Sukarno was made in a statement following a two-day review with the cabinet of the crisis precipitated by the territorial dispute between Indonesia and The Netherlands.

Menzies said Sukarno had repeatedly assured Australia that he would not use force to wrest control of West New Guinea from the Dutch and that Indonesia "did not and would not make any claim to that portion of Papua and New Guinea for which we have direct responsibility."

In view of these assurances, Menzies said, "we are reluctant to believe that the threats of war now being made by the Indonesian government. . .are being followed by action."

Menzies said a war would be "quite unnecessary since the doors for free negotiation are wide open."

"Such a war would solve no problems but would create animosities from which nobody except the Communist powers would profit," he said.

HEALTH WORKERS

NEW YORK (UPI)—About 2.5 million persons, one of every 30 persons employed in the United States, work at maintaining the nation's health. Within the past decade, the health field has risen from seventh to third place among the major U.S. industries in terms of number of persons employed, according to the Health Information Foundation.

TAKES CASE TO PEOPLE

PAR Asks School Study Cooperation

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Public Affairs Research Council Friday took its case to the people in asking cooperation with a $250,000 survey of what makes the best high school click.

PAR, a private, nonfactional research agency, said the privately financed survey would develop guidelines for assistance in further "upgrading the quality and excellence of our high school system."

Supt. Roscoe White of Caddo Parish schools, president of the Louisiana School Superintendents Association, has sent resolutions to all school superintendents asking school boards to oppose the PAR study.

White's proposed resolution for school boards said the evaluation and accreditation of high schools "is and has been adequately performed by the state Department of Education and the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools."

It said opposition should be voiced to such an educational evaluation by PAR or any similar organization.

PAR said its $250,000 survey would be performed by Louisiana educators with PAR underwriting the expenses.

A PAR spokesman said all this was being made public, because the statement had been prepared for a state Board of Education meeting originally scheduled Friday. The meeting has been postponed a week because of the icy weather.

PAR said the original idea for the study came from the dean of the graduate school at the University of Southwestern Louisiana, for a review of outstanding chemistry programs in high schools.

PAR said the suggestion was considered valid for other subject areas, including math, English, history and civics, biology and foreign languages.

The proposal was submitted to state Supt. Shelby M. Jackson in October with a request for a conference to get his views and suggestions, PAR added.

Thus far, it continued, "the superintendent has been quite busy and has not found it possible to schedule time for such a conference."

PAR said it has found many "pleasing" developments in public education. Louisiana, it added, has almost eliminated the one-teacher schools, has expanded the value of the educational plant by five times to a total of about $500 million, has adopted a minimum salary for all teachers which brings them near the national average and above all southern states except Florida, and has increased the training of its teachers so that 92 per cent of them have college degrees to rank the state in the upper third in the nation.

While recognizing the progress made, PAR continued, there is need to strengthen educational efforts to see that children "get every opportunity possible."

Retired Winn Parish Minister Dies On Friday

WINNFIELD (Special) — The Rev. B. C. Pennington, about 70, of Goldonna, well-known retired Winn Parish minister, died early Friday in a Winnfield hospital after an illness of about a week.

The Rev. Mr. Pennington had lived in and around Goldonna for the better part of his life and had served as pastor at several churches in the area prior to his retirement.

He was a former pastor of the Goldonna Baptist Church, at which services have been scheduled for 2 p.m. Saturday. Officiating will be the Revs. Bill Johnson, of Goldonna, and Guy Murphy, of Ashland.

Interment will follow in Liberty Hill Cemetery in Bienville Parish under direction of the Southern Funeral Home at Winnfield.

The Rev. Mr. Pennington is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jessie Pennington of Goldonna, who is closely related to several residents of the Monroe area; three daughters, Mrs. Margie Rambin, Jacksonville, Fla., Mrs. Melba Bray, Many, and Mrs. Thelma Walker, Natchitoches; a son, Carol Pennington, Florine; 15 grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Woman Waives Extradition

A West Monroe woman, wanted in Harris County, Tex., under a charge of illegal possession of marijuana, signed a waiver of extradition here yesterday and will be returned to face trial.

Virginia Faye Sullivan, 25, of 207 Morris St., was taken into custody earlier in the day by the Ouachita Parish Sheriff's Department under a fugitive warrant issued through the office of the district attorney.

She posted bond of $2,000.

Police Probing Burglary, Theft

Monroe police were investigating both a burglary and a theft Friday involving losses of just over $50 in cash and merchandise.

About $10 in coins were taken sometime Thursday night or Friday morning from a juke box in Nelson's Shoe Shine Stand at 907 DeSiard St., police said. Walter Nelson reported the loss.

Nearly $42 worth of assorted types of liquor was reported taken from a truck of the Glazier Wholesale Company while it was parked at the Oak Leaf Bar. Driver J. D. Johnson of 1219 Mississippi St. in Tallulah, said the thief or thieves made off around 12:13 p.m. with 16 half-pints of gin, 14 half-pints of bourbon and two pints of bourbon.

Man Is Charged On Theft Counts

Jim White, of 110 Jerry St. in West Monroe, was picked up Friday afternoon by the Ouachita Parish Sheriff's Department under warrants for two counts of theft.

White, 36, who drew attention recently as the owner of the fire-ravaged Yellowjacket Boat Company, was in parish jail yesterday under bonds of $500 on each count of the offense. He is charged with the theft of $30 in each instance.

U.S. Appeals Court Denies Negro's Plea

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—A federal appeals court refused Friday to issue an order admitting James Meredith, 29-year-old Negro, to the all-white University of Mississippi.

But the 5th U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals told U. S. Dist. Judge Sidney Mize, before whom the case is to be tried on its merits Monday, to render a prompt verdict "in view of the fact that a new term of the University of Mississippi begins Feb. 6, 1962."

The three judges said that, "Meredith was discriminated against in violation of the equal protection clause of the 5th Amendment and was unlawfully denied admission to the university" to the extent that his rejection was based on his inability to supply alumni certificates.

The court laid down a number of guidelines for Judge Mize and noted that "it is impossible to determine whether there were valid, non-discriminatory grounds for the University's refusing Meredith's admission" without a trial on the case's merits.

Meredith, an Air Force veteran from Koscisko, Miss., was rejected in attempts to enter the university for the spring and summer sessions of 1961.

Judge John Minor Wisdom of New Orleans wrote the decision, which was concurred in by Chief Judge Elbert P. Tuttle of Atlanta and Judge Richard Rives of Montgomery, Ala.

In its guidelines to Judge Mize, the court charged that counsel for the defendants, who include the Board of Trustees of the State Institution of Higher Learning of the state of Mississippi and various Ole Miss officials, was allowed "so much latitude. . .that the record contains a welter of irrelevancies."

On the other hand, the court noted, counsel for Meredith was "severely circumscribed in the examination of witnesses, introducition of evidence, and argument."

The appeals court held that Judge Mize erred in limiting evidence to the 1961 summer session, because "the policy and practice of the university in admissions were at issue" and because Meredith made clear his application was intended to cover admission to the regular school term also.

Judge Mize issued his order Dec. 12. The appeals court heard oral arguments on the case Tuesday.

In its review of the case, the court said Mississippi attorneys "argued here in the eerie atmosphere of never-never land" when they claimed there is no state policy favoring segregated institutions of higher learning.

It took "judicial notice that the state of Mississippi maintains a policy of segregation in its schools and colleges" but said this fact did not relieve Meredith of the necessity of "showing in this case that the policy was applied to him to produce discrimination on the ground of race."

POWDER FOR FIRE

NEW YORK (UPI) — A fire-extinguishing powder developed in Britain is said to be more effective on blazing aircraft than are foam extinguishers, according to the British Information Services.

Originally developed by the United Kingdom Atomic Energy Authority for dealing with fires of radioactive materials, the powder is now being made under license by a British frim which has developed its application to magnesium and aircraft fires.

RIBICOFF ASSERTS

JFK To Press For School Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Welfare Abraham A. Ribicoff said Friday night President Kennedy and the administration intend to press for action by Congress on the bill for federal aid to public schools.

"Everything possible will be done to get this bill considered favorably by the House of Representatives," Ribicoff said in a statement.

"I urge on the members of both houses (of Congress) that they press vigorously for action on the President's total program for federal aid to education."

A White House official also said Kennedy stands on his State of the Union message to Congress Thursday, in which he urged Congress to act on a broad program of aid to education.

This official described as 100 per cent untrue a report that the administration will not press for action on the general public school bill in hopes of winning passage of less controversial education measures.

This official and Ribicoff were commenting on a report attributed to Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., that the administration was giving up the fight for its general public school aid bill.

Powell himself, after Ribicoff issued his statement, said the report was based on a newsman's misinterpretation of remarks he made in an interview.

A reporter understood Powell, chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, to say the administration did not intend to push for action on the public school aid measure.

Powell disputed that, saying in a statement: "What I said was that the President, in his message to Congress, said he was standing behind the bill sent up last year so there was no need for another bill."

This was a reference to the administration bill to provide federal funds for public school construction and teachers salaries.

The bill touched off a bitter controversy last year when Roman Catholic leaders insisted that parochial schools should share in the program. The resuling stalemate doomed all education bills for the session.

Because of the religious issue and considerable opposition to the measure in the House on other grounds, most congressmen interested have conceded that the bill's prospects this year are slim.

Powell has said repeatedly that unless Kennedy personally calls on him to do so, he does not intend to make any move to revive the bill, stuck in the House Rules Committee.

He discussed the whole question at an hour-long conference with Ribicoff Friday.

In his statement, Ribicoff said he has been holding such discussions with a number of Senate and House members involved, and he added: "At each meeting I reiterated a strong endorsement of the President's entire education program. Specifically, this includes the elementary and secondary construction and teachers' salaries bill, and the bigger education bill.

"The elementary and secondary bill has passed the Senate and has been reported out by the House Education and Labor Committee. This bill has been tabled by the House Rules Committee. In these conferences, I reiterated the President's determination to see that this bill is passed at this session of the Congress."

Powell said he and Ribicoff agreed on a program of timing they hope offers the administration its best prospects for passage of the program.

LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO (AP) — Prices of butcher hogs skidded as much as 50 cents a hundredweight Friday as the largest Friday supply in more than two years went on sale to a relatively slow demand.

Athough shipper interest was described as poor, those accounts took 5,000 of the 8,500 head on sale. The $18 practical top was off $1 from the high of Wednesday. However, a very few closely sorted No. 1 grade brought $18.50.

The mixed No. 1s and 2s weighing 190-220 lbs moved at $17.75-18 and the same weights of mixed 1-3 grades at $17.50-17.75. Weights up to 330 lbs and mixed No. 3 went as low as $15.50. Sows were $13-15.50.

Several loads of high choice grade slaughter steers sold at $27.75-28 for 1,225-1,300 lb weights with that market steady. The good to average choice cleared at $24-27.

Heifers, vealers and bulls were scarce. The heifers topped at $22 for a load of mixed standard and good. The few standard vealers brought $22 and utility bulls $19.50-20.50.

Slaughter lambs grading mixed choice and prime sold at $17-18.15 and good and choice $16.50-17 with prices steady.

GRAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Grain futures prices showed some rallying tendency at times Friday on the Board of Trade but the support was a thin speculative demand which faltered near the finish and allowed the market to settle back.

The grains closed about steady, soybeans firm.

Speculators appeared to have been heartened by a slackened volume of hedge selling which had been heavy most of the week and by word that the government had boosted its price of surplus corn for export a cent a bushel.

Wheat closed unchanged to ⅛ cent a bushel lower, March $2.04⅜-¾; corn unchanged to ⅛ higher, March $1.07⅜-⅜; oats ⅛ higher, March 72¾; rye ⅜ higher to ⅝ lower, March $1.34⅜-½; soybeans ½-1 cent higher, January $2.43⅜-44.

Speculators expressed belief that there still is a good deal of liquidation to be worked in the wheat pit and that all bulges will be small and short lived unless some significant bullish factors develop within the next few days.

COTTON

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures closed 35 cents to $1.05 a bale higher Friday. Trade and commission house buying readily absorbed hedging and liquidation.

Expectations that the flow of cotton into the government loan will tighten up free market supplies later in the season attracted buying to current crop months.

New crop trading months drew support on fact that the minimum government loan on the 1962 cotton crop is to be maintained at the level of the 1961 support program.

SOME ALREADY PASSE

Styles Fading Out In Less Than Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Certain styles born less than a year ago are already passe, as women who may not even have them paid for yet will soon discover.

For weary fashion writers now have a new list of "in" and "out" fashions as a result of enduring an exhausting week-long marathon of some 1,400 spring styles designed by members of the New York Couture Group.

On the "out" list are last year's status symbols: beads, sequins, crystals, ostrich feathers and lame. Also "out" are tent-like coats, most capes (with the exception of Pauline Trigere's), easy fitting or (sacky) dresses, pencil slim skirts, and long-sleeved coats.

A few faithfuls such as Rudolf and Herb Sondheim sprinkled their chiffons with glitter but not to the dazzling degree of last year.

So "out" are long-sleeved coats that one introduced by Originala Friday was viewed as downright reactionary.

On the "in" list are chiffon, velvet, silk Alaskeen, and bold-patterned printed silk; silk printed sheaths with coats lined with the same material; cummerbunds; wide belts; high fitted waistlines, skirts that hug the hips and then flare outward at the thighs; suits that fit tight, coats that fit tight, and dresses that fit even tighter.

Coat dresses — or dress coats —are definitely "in." Originala emphasized this point by modeling some yellow fleece wools handsomely trimmed in satin binding, like warm blankets. Fashion editors scribbled down the fact that the bravest of women can wear the fitted coats without dresses under them.

In, in, in everywhere with everybody among American couture members are fluttering, floating, ruffled and bowed dresses. Friday's devotee of this frivolous fashion was Rudolf, with panels that flowed from one shoulder to another.

Stoles, too, are on the "in" list. Herb Sondheim closed his show with a bold, plaid chiffon featuring a stole that contained more yardage than the dress.

Too new to be "in" but with good chances of it soon are these fresh style ideas: double-breasted coats with no buttonholes; military braid; coats with huge boat necklines; square pockets almost to the hem of three-quarter length coats; T-square pockets—that is, false lapels over vertical slit pockets; and lap seams — seams so wide they look like belts.

Originala used all of these.

Still this list of "ins," "outs" and "in-betweens" is guaranteed to change in another six months. That's what keeps the cash registers ringing in the purposely fickle fashion business.

SOVIET TO VISIT KING

LONDON (AP) — Anastas I. Mikoyan, first Soviet deputy premier, will visit Morocco as guest of King Hassan II this month after his tour of the Mali Republic, the Soviet News Agency Tass reports.

DEVELOPS EQUIPMENT

NEW YORK (UPI)—International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. has developed compact lightweight radio receiving equipment for precise long-range navigation for air or sea lanes. Part of the Loran-C system, the new receiver-indicator is suitcase-sized and weighs only 75 pounds.

Congo Censure Motion Filed Against Leftist

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—Deputy Premier Antoine Gizenga, the leftist political heir of Patrice Lumumba, was formally accused in Parliament Friday of deserting his official tasks here and defying Parliament.

Forty-four deputies, a majority of those present, approved a motion of censure that is expected to come to a vote Monday.

Congolese sources said passage of the motion could mean dismissal of Gizenga from Premier Cyrille Adoula's central government, and perhaps arrest.

Diplomats agreed he is now seriously isolated politically.

A darling of the Communist bloc, Gizenga has been absent without leave from the capital since October.

The censure motion was filed after the expiration of a parliamentary ultimatum calling on Gizenga to return from his self-imposes exile in Stanleyville, 775 miles up the Congo River, and answer charges of secessionism.

Gizenga rejected that summons in a telegram Wednesday, but had a change of heart overnight.

He notified Parliament Thursday he would return shortly to Leopoldville. But he did not set a date.

Art Exhibit Slated Sunday At Northeast

Art work done by two Northeast Louisiana State College art education seniors will be displayed Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m. in the Student Lounge of the Fine Arts Building.

The show will be open to the public, Dr. Harry M. Lemert, dean of the Fine Arts Division, has announced. Visitors also are invited to the coffee hour to be given in connection with the show.

Senior exhibitors are Miss Nancy Blake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Blake of Sterlington, and Mrs. Anne Arrant of West Monroe. Both are scheduled to complete requirements for the bachelor's degree this month.

Their exhibit will comprise work done in classes taught by Mrs. Gregor Goethals and Edward Schutz of the Northeast Fine Arts faculty.

Included in the list of showings will be oils, watercolors, mosaics, leathercraft, jewelry, ceramics and sculpture.

The work being displayed reflects the approach to art as it is pursued at Northeast, Schutz explained.

A wide variety of media has been explored, utilizing many approaches to design problems, some representative, some abstract.

The watercolors of Mrs. Arrant's exhibit illustrate a degree of confidence necessary to succeed in that medium, Schutz said. Miss Blake is best in her oil paintings, which are of a vibrant decorative nature, the instructor asserted. The works of both women reflect ability to pursue a chosen medium to its fullest, he said.

TWO OTHERS DAMAGED

Flames Destroy Tech Building

RUSTON (Special) — Firemen fought an early morning fire on the Louisiana Tech campus Friday in zero weather and managed to confine the blaze to the "T" Building, where damage was estimated at $53,000.

There was extensive damage to windows and doors of nearby Carson - Taylor Hall, the science building, according to President R. L. Ropp. There was no water damage to the building, but there was considerable smoke in the building and virtually all the windows in the northeast end were broken by the heat.

Half a dozen windows were broken in the Engineering Annex. The "T" Building was valued at $15,000 and the equipment inside was valued at $38,000, all covered by insurance. An insurance adjuster was scheduled to arrive later in the day.

"We're busy making an itemized list of equipment but are most concerned at the loss of personal effects of the 11 or 12 teachers who had offices in the building," Ropp said.

The ROTC lost considerable equipment, but a safe with money in it was not destroyed. The mimeograph equipment in the north end was ruined.

"As near as we could tell, the fire started a little after 6 a.m. and we have no idea what caused it," Ropp said. He continued, "There is no gas in the building, so it might possibly have been faulty wiring."

The mimeograph equipment serviced the entire college.

It was the second college fire in Lincoln Parish in eight days. Last Thursday night, the library at Grambling was damaged by fire during a violent thunderstorm.

Firemen fighting the blaze Friday morning were hampered by frozen snow, but managed to bring the blaze under control about 8 a.m.

Former Monroe Man Succumbs; Services Pending

He was a veteran of World War II.

Mr. Cascio died in a Beaumont hospital Friday following an illness of three days.

Survivors are his widow, Mrs. Lucy Cascio; one son, V. J. Cascio and a daughter, Mary Jo Cascio, all of Beaumont; one brother, Charles J. Casio, and two sisters, Mrs. Virginia C. Miller and Miss Josephine Marie Cascio, all of Monroe.
